GERMANY WARNED AGAINST ATTACK

ITALY CEASES OFFENSIVE ON ETHIOPIA FRONT

Invaders Expect Powers Will Quickly Settle African War in Order to Face New Problems in Europe; Ethiopians Say They Are Continuing Defensive War

Associated Press

Rome, March 9.—Fascist Italy's offensive operations in northern Ethiopia were reported halted today amid a feeling of acceptance of the League of Nations' peace appeal and German denunciation of the Locarno Pact would end sanctions.

A belief arose that the importance of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict diminished in the face of the new developments, with a quick peace in prospect to enable Europe to face its new problems.

Italy's position regarding Germany's broadcast at the Locarno Pact was that she would take no action as a guarantor of that pact.

ETHIOPIA'S DEFENCE

Addis Ababa, March 9.—It was officially stated today that Ethiopia, no matter what Italy does, "will continue the defensive war until peace negotiations begin on a definite basis."

The statement was made following receipt of a report that Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander of the Italian forces, had ordered a cessation of the offensive on the northern front.

The Ethiopian Government issued a communique supporting previous reports the British Red Cross ambulance unit at Quorom had been bombed for the third time by Italian airplanes.

Three of the bombing planes, the communique stated, crashed to the ground during the operations.

PLANES GROUND

Asmara, Eritrea, March 9.—Offensive operations by Italian troops on the Ethiopian northern front were reported to have been halted.

After that it will be sent to the different legislatures for ratification. Since it will take some time to go through this business, the British Columbia House probably will be unable to deal with it until the fall session.

Mr. Sloan had no comment to make about plans for the loan council.

PROGRESS AT CONFERENCE

But B.C. Cannot Deal With Constitutional Question This Session

"The results of the conference were very satisfactory," said Attorney-General Gordon Sloan on his return today from attending the subcommittee of the Dominion-Provincial conference on constitutional affairs.

Many of the former difficulties encountered by the committee had been ironed out, Mr. Sloan said. Most of the provinces have agreed to the method of amending the British North America Act and placing control of Canada's constitution within its own jurisdiction. The attitude of the maritimes, however, is not definite yet.

The final draft of the proposed changes is now in course of preparation, he indicated, and will be forwarded to the provincial representatives when completed. It is likely a plenary session of the full conference will then be called to deal with it.

After that it will be sent to the different legislatures for ratification. Since it will take some time to go through this business, the British Columbia House probably will be unable to deal with it until the fall session.

Mr. Sloan had no comment to make about plans for the loan council.

Eleven Policemen Are Reinstated

Toronto, March 9 (Canadian Press).—Eleven police officers suspended during the Royal Commission investigation into Toronto police affairs were reinstated today by the police board. The cases of four other suspended officers will be dealt with tomorrow.

SEATTLE LOOKS FOR BIG VOTE

Balloting For Mayor Tomorrow Is Expected to Set Record

Seattle, March 9.—Observers predicted today an all-time record for a Seattle mayoralty election will be achieved tomorrow when voters go to the polls to choose between John F. Dore, former mayor, and Councilman Arthur B. Langlie, Cincinnati candidate.

Supporters in the rival camps freely predict the vote will surpass by at least 2,000 the previous record of 1932, when approximately 117,000 citizens turned out to name Dore mayor over Robert H. Harlin. Dore was defeated in 1934 by Charles L. Smith.

The electorate will decide between Langlie's "economy" plan and Dore's "the depression's over" statements. The candidates have been split on all issues during the campaign.

Langlie has urged a "clean city." Dore has promised "this won't be a Sunday school town."

Dr. Hermann Gortz, German, Convicted in London of Sketching Army Flying Field

Associated Press

London, March 9.—Dr. Hermann Gortz, German lawyer, was convicted by a jury today of violating the Official Secrets Act by making a sketch of an army flying field.

He was sentenced to four years at hard labor.

The jury deliberated only briefly after listening to an appeal by Defence Counsel Reginald Croom-Johnson to keep "your heads cool" in deciding the case.

The jury declared the German attorney to be guilty of two counts after it had examined one of Gortz's diaries in which he described motor-cycle expeditions to many of Great Britain's airfields.

NOVEL CLAIM

Gortz previously had admitted making the sketch, but declared the drawing had been made to use in a novel he was writing.

Summing up the case for the jury, the judge said: "There is no doubt the sketch is a sketch of a prohibited place and the type aimed at in the passing of the Official Secrets Act."

Hundred Business Men Ask Delay In Health Insurance

LIBERAL GROUPS SUPPORT WEIR

Fired by the controversy which has been in progress ever since the B.C. Legislature opened, supporters of health insurance are now rallying round and notifying the government of their views. Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, indicated this morning.

In today's mail the minister received resolutions from the general executive of Vancouver South-Point Grey Liberal Association, and from Ward One, Vancouver Centre Association, unanimously endorsing the health insurance programme.

Vancouver South is the largest single riding in the province. The resolution was passed at a meeting attended by fifty-five of the sixty-three who represent the different locals on the general executive.

Britain Again Protests to Italy

London, March 9.—Instructions have been sent to the British ambassador at Rome, Sir Eric Drummond, to make a second protest against the bombing of a British Red Cross unit in Ethiopia.

The ambassador made the first protest Saturday. Shortly afterwards the British Government received official advice of a second bombing. A third attack on the British Red Cross unit was reported today, but so far this lacks official confirmation.

Superannuation Changes Sought

Union of B.C. Municipalities Committee, With Employees' Groups, Draft Proposed Changes to Cut Past Service Benefits

Drastic cuts in the pension allowance given municipal employees for past services, that is for periods during which the employee did not contribute to the superannuation fund, will be recommended to Hon. George M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and representatives of labor groups concerned tomorrow. At a special meeting in Mayor

Delegation From Victoria and Vancouver Meets Liberal Members; Labor Men Urge Action in Wires to Weir

The battle on health insurance was resumed here today with representations both for and against going to the members and the government.

One of the largest delegations seen here for years, comprising leading industrialists and business men of Victoria and Vancouver to the number of 100 met the Liberal caucus at a private meeting.

They urged delay in the measure until the fall session of the House with investigation by a joint government and public committee in the meantime.

At the same time the Vancouver and New Westminster Trades and Labor Council put on a counter, attack by wiring to Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, that while working people of the mainland could not pay the expenses of a delegation, they wanted the government to know they were behind the bill.

Alex. Mercer, general manager of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, spoke for the industrial delegation before the Liberal members.

EARL BEATTY IN CRITICAL STATE

London, March 9.—(Canadian Press from Havas).—Earl Beatty was reported sinking today. The retired Admiral of the Fleet, sixty-five, has been ill several months.

Sir Maurice Cassidy, heart specialist who attended the late King George, again was summoned to the bedside. This morning, he announced Earl Beatty's condition was "extremely grave."

MORE LOGGING AT LADYSMITH

Mayo Singh Will Open Stand of Timber; Many Men Will Be Employed

A second new timber operation on the island which will centre its activities in Ladysmith will get under way shortly, according to word received here.

Mayo Singh, well-known island lumberman, who has interests at Kapaor, will open a stand of timber adjacent to the limits recently purchased by the Canadian Western Lumber Company, fifteen miles from Ladysmith.

He has already secured foreshore rights on Ladysmith harbor and will use the old track from Extension to bring his logs to tidewater, and the old coal wharf at Ladysmith for shipping purposes.

This operation is expected to begin almost immediately.

Recently the purchase of large timber stands near Ladysmith by the Canadian Western Lumber Company was announced. These interests proposed to house their men in Ladysmith. Some 250 will be employed.

The two operations will combine, it is expected, to bring a revival of activity in Ladysmith, which has been a heavy sufferer from the depression in the coal mining industry.

DEMPSEY CHILD UNDER GUARD

Atlantic City, N.J., March 9.—Officers investigated today an anonymous "tip" purporting to disclose a plot to kidnap Jack Dempsey's nineteen-month-old daughter, Joan Hannah.

Whether the "tip" was accurate, the officers were unprepared to say. Acting Captain of Detectives James Farley asserted, "It is probably the work of a crank."

The child, however, was placed under guard at a hotel where she is staying with her mother, the former Hannah Williams.

The Dempseys have refused to discuss the threat and in Washington the Department of Justice declined comment.

The precautions were taken, it was learned, after a friend of Dempsey and Jack himself had received post cards on which an anonymous writer warned them that "two Polish gentlemen" were overheard planning the kidnapping.

No Immediate Threat of War Is Seen As Britain Backs Pacts For Security

Eden, Telling Commons Government Does Not Regard German Rhineland Move Foreshadows Further Aggression, Warns Any Attack on France or Belgium Before League Makes Decision Would Bring Britain to Their Defence

FRENCH LEADERS DISAPPOINTED

Associated Press

Paris, March 9.—French officials declared today that a war with Germany to oust Hitler's troops from the Rhineland was impossible and that Great Britain's apparent sympathy with the Reichsfuehrer's peace offer blocked the French demand for "justice."

They said France was "strong in her right," but that she still believes in collective security—that is, joint action by allied nations.

DISAPPOINTMENT VOICED
The speech made this afternoon by Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, in the House of Commons, aroused exclamations of bitter disappointment in the French atmosphere of profound gloom.

Officials said France had relied on the loyalty of her allies, the Little Entente of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, and on her newly-found friend, Russia.

But, they said, France, even with the major portion of her "iron ring around Germany," must hesitate to take drastic action "if Great Britain deserts us."

SANCTIONS ELIMINATED
They added that it was obvious from Mr. Eden's declaration in the House of Commons that the idea of imposing sanctions against Germany was eliminated.

His declaration in favor of examining Hitler's peace offer, which brought applause from the members of the House, was regarded as Britain's policy.

Such an examination was specifically rejected by Premier Sarraut yesterday evening and officials commented that Mr. Eden knew of this rejection when he spoke.

Aberhart's Mind On Higher Issue

Alberta Premier Afraid People Losing Viewpoint

Associated Press

Edmonton, March 9.—Major C. H. Douglas has not yet replied to the Alberta government's cablegram of last Saturday asking him once more to advise on Social Credit, Premier Aberhart acknowledged today.

The world Social Credit founder is believed to be discussing his Alberta status with the board of strategy of his British Social Credit League, which is holding a convention at London now.

Edmonton, March 9.—Declaring there were "vicious forces at work," Premier Aberhart of Alberta asserted at the Prophetic Bible Conference here yesterday evening that he believed "some person or persons have bided Major (C. H.) Douglas and that he has not got full information."

"This whole difficulty is one we did not expect," Premier Aberhart said. "I hope that he (Major Douglas) will regain his poise," the Premier (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

RELIEF STRIKERS ATTACK WORKERS

Associated Press

Stratford, Ont., March 9.—In two sudden raids today, striking relief recipients fell on a party of relief workers, seized their picks and shovels and hurled them into the roadway. The work party was called off the job, but returned later under police protection.

Police wielded their batons during the brief melee. One officer, Constable Alex. Templeton, was knocked down during the disturbance, in which twenty-five to thirty strikers took part.

PUBLIC SHOWS GREAT INTEREST

Canadian Press and Associated Press

London, March 9.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden warned Germany today that any attack on France or Belgium in violation of the Locarno Treaty would force Great Britain to go to the assistance of those two nations.

At the same time, he told the House of Commons, he was thankful to say there was no reason to suppose that "the present German action implies a threat of hostilities."

The Foreign Secretary indicated Great Britain was willing to consider Reichsfuehrer Hitler's proposals for new peace covenants.

He stated the British position should be clarified, declaring: "It is clearly desirable to do this, because no one can fail to realize the stabilizing force of clear-sighted and united British influence in the affairs of Europe at this juncture."

BOUND BY 1 EDGE
The question of Germany's repudiation of the Treaty of Locarno would go before the League of Nations, Mr. Eden said, but "in case there should be any misunderstanding about our position as a signatory of the Locarno Pact His Majesty's Government think it necessary to say that should there take place during the period which will be necessary for consideration of the new situation which has arisen, any action which would constitute a violation of article 2 of the Locarno Pact, His Majesty's Government, not- (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

FRENCH CHASE GERMAN PLANE

Associated Press

Metz, France, March 9.—Authorities here were notified today that a German plane flew over French fortifications at Thainville and then sped into Germany with French military planes in pursuit.

The flight over the fortifications occurred at 5 p.m., the authorities said, and continued for ten minutes.

The French planes took to the air and followed the German plane to the Rhineland border.

Border Clashes Are New Danger

Newly Arrived German Troops in Rhineland Are at Some Points Within Sight of French Fortifications

Associated Press

Metz, France, March 9.—Fear of frontier incidents swept along the border today as French and German troops faced one another on the Rhineland frontier for the first time since the Great War.

Officers said the French fortifications in some places were "within machine gun distance" of the newly-arrived Nazi forces on the left bank of the Rhine.

About 150,000 French troops were in the underground forts of France's famous steel and concrete line of defense and in advance patrol posts. GERMANS TOTAL 50,000

Army officers, who said the German troops across the frontier numbered about 50,000, expressed "grave fears" of frontier incidents. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

Locarno Appeal to League Council

Delegates Called to Meet Friday at Geneva to Hear French-Belgian Protest Against Germany's Rhineland Move

Associated Press

Geneva, March 9.—Belgium joined France in an appeal to the League of Nations Council today against Germany's violation of the Locarno Pact by military occupation of the Rhineland.

League officials said the Belgian appeal, which arrived today, was along the same lines as that from France yesterday evening, calling for a Council session as soon as possible to deal with the crisis.

A Council session was called for Friday and officials said Germany and Belgium, as parties to the dispute, would be invited to take seats about the Council table when the accusation against Germany was examined.

Acceptance of this invitation would bind Berlin to "carry out in full good faith any award or decision that may be rendered."

Rt. Hon. Stanley M. Bruce, former Prime Minister of Australia, president of the Council, called the session.

TWO-WAY CRISIS
Arms on the move on two continents brought the League face to face with a double-barreled crisis which Geneva sources considered as threatening gravely the peace of the world and the existence of the League.

The Italian armies which invaded Ethiopia five months ago were still there. The German troops, which marched into the Rhineland—demilitarized by the Locarno Pact and the

ARMY PLEDGE GIVEN HITLER

Full Support Vowed By War Minister at Rhineland Celebration in Berlin

Associated Press
Berlin, March 9.—A nationwide celebration, with a pledge of loyalty from the regular army, bolstered Adolf Hitler today against the agitation arising all around Germany from his restoration of full sovereignty to the Rhineland.

Two days of delicious jubilation over the occupation of the left bank of the Rhine Saturday, in defiance of the Versailles Treaty and the Locarno Pact, ended at midnight, and the Third Reich returned today to normal business.

The presidential flag over the Reich Chancellery was taken down early this morning, and the Reichwehr (regular army) guards were withdrawn, indicating the chief of state had left the capital.

As far as could be ascertained from Wilhelmstrasse spokesmen and unofficial informants, no further fireworks were to be expected from the German side at this time.

Every effort to avoid border incidents or to create international alarm by unusual massing of troops was foreseen.

The Reich government felt it had given France and the rest of Europe a great chance for lasting pacification of Europe, by its offers to conclude peace pacts and re-enter the League of Nations.

Wires from the labor men were made public by Hon. O. M. Weir.

Percy R. Brough, general secretary of the Vancouver, New Westminster and Adair Trades and Labor Council, wired:

"The working people are unable to get the day off, not being in possession of a $10,000 fund for lobbying purposes, in this matter."

"We request the government to enact legislation establishing health insurance in the best interests in the thousands of working British Columbia citizens, who cannot be in Victoria today."

Birt Bowler of the Teamsters' and Chauffeurs' Union wired that employees of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, were behind the scheme. They belonged to his union, he advised.

No official government reply to either delegation was made public.

COMMITTEE CALLED

The League Council's Committee of Thirteen was called to meet tomorrow to consider the Italian-Ethiopian situation, but because of the meeting of Locarno Pact signatories then to consider the Rhineland crisis, it appeared probable the committee's meeting would be put off one day.

The sub-committee on sanctions met today to consider the progress of the war penalties against Italy, but a new question arose unofficially as to whether France might call for sanctions against Germany as punishment for the Locarno Pact violation.

Italian sources expressed an opinion that Germany's reoccupation of the Rhineland meant an end to all sanctions.

DEMONSTRATION POSSIBILITIES

In the varied discussions heard of officials said a naval and air demonstration against Germany would be possible if the Council decided to demand the cancellation of all sanctions against Italy as a condition for pursuing the negotiations of a peace with Ethiopia.

It was stated this condition was caused largely by the impression that Great Britain would oppose the imposition of sanctions against Germany for violation of the Locarno Pact.

The Italian government was expected to stress the "partiality" of sanctions against Italy.

French Leaders Disappointed

TO TALK TOMORROW

Refusing to examine Hitler's proposals for a substitute security system "under the menace" of German troops in the Rhineland, France called a Paris conference of the Locarno signatories, Britain, Italy and Belgium, for tomorrow.

In parliamentary lobbies it was urged the cabinet be reorganized to make "a strong government," and that parliamentary elections scheduled for the last of April be postponed.

Many of the deputies said it would be impossible for them to face the electorate while the international situation was so dark.

ITALY'S POSITION

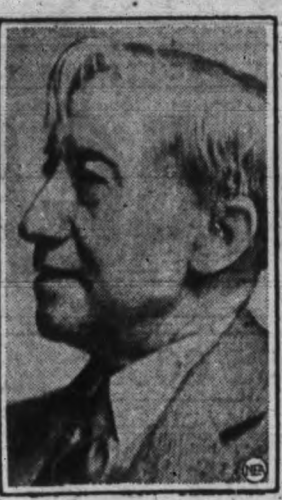

Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerruti, informed sources said, assured the French government Italy would assume its Locarno obligations if the League of Nations would slacken the sanctions being imposed as punishment for the war in Ethiopia.

ASSURANCES FROM POLAND

Reports from Warsaw said it was understood in informed Polish quarters that Poland had given the French ambassador there assurances that she would carry out faithfully her obligations under the Franco-Polish accord.

The French government reinforced its diplomatic campaign with immediate military measures.

HIS NORTH POLE CLAIM IN COURT

DR. FREDERICK A. COOK

Associated Press

Chicago, March 9.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook today said the libel suit filed by his attorneys in New York was notice he intended to "fight to the finish" to prove his claim to discovery of the North Pole.

"This is just one of the steps to clear up the whole situation," he declared.

"It is intended to put an end to the printing and circulation of false statements about me."

Dr. Cook recently celebrated his seventieth birthday.

In New York on Saturday Dr. Frederick A. Cook, charging depreciation of his claim to discovery of the North Pole in 1908, filed a $125,000 damage suit against the Encyclopedia Britannica, the Viking Press, the Houghton Mifflin Company and Jeanette Mirsky, a writer.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Canadian Arctic explorer, and Donald MacMillan, United States Arctic explorer, contributed to two of the books of which Dr. Cook complains, but they are not named as defendants.

Italy Ceases Offensive Moves in Ethiopia suspended at 8 a.m. yesterday pending developments on the League of Nations' recommendation for peace talks.

Italian airplanes were grounded after Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian commander-in-chief, had returned to Asmara from field headquarters.

There was a general feeling of optimism about the war, but anxiety existed on all sides regarding the German development.

The belief existed widely that the Ethiopian war was of minor importance in the face of new European developments, and that a quick peace would be sought to enable all to face European problems.

Determined to end any flights of German "observation" planes over French front, swift pursuit planes remained in the air with orders to force down or to identify all aircraft aloft in the frontier region.

FORTRESS IN EARTH

Paris, March 9.—Soldiers of France, living like 150,000 moles deep in the earth, man one of history's most remarkable fortifications as the Third Republic's first line of defence across the border from a rearming Reich.

A fortress 125 miles long, built at a cost of $250,000,000, is the French answer to the charge that in 1914 only the "bare breasts" of French soldiers lay between Paris and the Rhineland.

Hailed by military experts as one of the most complete military engineering feats ever conceived, it extends along the Franco-German frontier from Belfort, all the way to the Swiss Alps.

SOLID LINE

Convinced they can no longer depend on isolated fortresses—such as Verdun—the French have made the new fortress a solid line of small continuous works, hidden so far as possible and ready to receive their defenders at a moment's notice.

"France could close her eastern frontier, her high command says, within a few hours by mobilizing the reservists from the neighboring villages."

GERMAN CELEBRATIONS

Associated Press

Cologne, Germany, March 9.—The watch on the Rhine, hailed by Adolf Hitler as symbolical of an equal Germany, worked today to consolidate its position in the remilitarized Rhineland.

While military airplanes soared overhead, staffs settled down to the routine duties after a week-end of festive celebration.

The population along the important frontier, from the Black Forest to the Dutch border, yesterday celebrated what they called the greatest memorial day since the Great War.

March 9 is an official holiday in Germany in remembrance of war dead.

The former demilitarized area, more than any other part of Germany, coupled its annual services in memory of those who died in former wars with a jubilee over the marching in Saturday and yesterday of Germany's new army.

Mulugheta, Aide To Selassie, Dies

Ethiopia's War Minister and Commander on Northern Front Succumbs

By CHRISTIAN OZANNE

Havas News Agency Correspondent

Addis Ababa, March 9.—Ras Mulugheta, Ethiopia's War Minister and commander-in-chief on the northern front, died suddenly after a short illness.

A government announcement of the veteran warrior's death, issued yesterday, contained no further details. It was assumed Mulugheta had succumbed somewhere in the Lake Achangi region while trying to reorganize his army for another stand against the Italian advance.

The War Minister was one of Emperor Haile Selassie's most trusted advisers. Sent into the north to take command of Ethiopian defence operations, he enjoyed some tactical success for a time. But late last month the Italian Government claimed his army of 80,000 men had been decimated.

Yesterday's death marked the beginning of Italy's latest offensive in the north.

withstanding the German repudiation of the treaty, would regard themselves as in honor bound to come, in the manner provided in the treaty, to the assistance of the country attacked."

As Mr. Eden made this declaration, the House of Commons was silent. Every member and every other spectator leaned forward, straining to hear every syllable of the pronouncement.

GALLERIES CROWDED

The House of Commons was packed to the doors to hear Mr. Eden expound the British position in this moment when Germany has violated the Locarno Pact and Versailles Treaty by throwing troops into the demilitarized zone and France has retaliated with the war-time garrisoning of her fortifications along the frontier.

Every important embassy accredited to London was represented in the diplomatic gallery.

PROTESTED TO AMBASSADOR

Mr. Eden said he had protested directly to Ambassador von Hoesch against Germany's reoccupation of the Rhineland and that he had stated the effect on British public opinion would be deplorable.

"I told the ambassador," said Mr. Eden, "that I deeply regretted he had given me no indication about the action the German Government was taking in respect to the demilitarized zone and I stated it amounted to a unilateral repudiation of a treaty freely negotiated and freely signed."

CONFIDENCE SHAKEN

The course taken by the German Government "complicates and aggravates the international situation," he said.

"The abrogation of the Locarno Pact and the occupation of the demilitarized zone," declared Mr. Eden, "have profoundly shaken confidence in any engagement in which the government of Germany may in the future enter."

This statement was greeted with cheers by the members.

NOT TO BE CONDONED

"There can be no one in this House or this country," said the Foreign Secretary, "who would wish to condone or excuse such a step."

"It strikes a severe blow at the principle of the sanctity of treaties which underlies the whole structure of international relations."

TO STUDY PROPOSALS

At the same time, Mr. Eden indicated Great Britain was willing to consider Reichsmarshal Hitler's proposal for new peace overtures.

He said Great Britain would examine them clear-sightedly and objectively to determine their merits.

He declared: "One of the important foundations of the peace of western Europe has been cut away, and if peace is to be secured, there is a manifest duty to rebuild."

"It is in that spirit that we must approach the new proposals of the German Chancellor."

"In the present grave condition of international affairs, His Majesty's government feel no opportunity must be missed which offers any hope of amelioration."

TO GO TO GENEVA

Mr. Eden announced he and Viscount Halifax, the Lord Privy Seal, would represent Great Britain at the forthcoming meeting of the League of Nations Council in Geneva.

QUESTIONS LIMITED

Mr. Eden made his statement at the end of the usual question hour. Usually a policy statement of such vital importance is followed by a flood of supplementary questions. Today all parties recognized the need for discretion and supplementaries were few.

Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor Party, who had put the original question which brought Mr. Eden's statement, asked if opportunity would be given later for debate.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, in view of the circumstances, was non-committal.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, former Foreign Secretary, asked if the German proposals for new non-aggression pacts applied only to her eastern and western neighbors or extended to Germany's neighbors on the south, and furthermore if in the coming negotiations the Foreign Secretary would bear in mind the necessity of safeguarding the independence of Austria.

"I understand," Mr. Eden replied,

the past service benefit is at least $50. Superannuation is now given on a joint basis, part of which is partially covered by contribution from the employees and made up by the municipalities. The other section affects those employed by a municipality prior to the introduction of the present system of superannuation and is known as the benefits for past services.

No contributions were made by employees for past services.

Provided the amendments are approved by the government, the reduction in the past service grant will be made effective on all who are drawing superannuation of that type as well as those who retire during the year and are eligible for past service consideration.

According to the proposed amendment no employee who joins the civil or municipal staffs affected after attaining the age of forty years will be eligible for superannuation.

No pensions will be given for less than twenty years' service.

RESOLUTION

The text of the resolution, which will be presented to Dr. Weir follows:

"That subsection b of section 42 of the Superannuation Act, being chapter 247 of the Revised Statutes of British Columbia 1924, be amended by adding thereto:

"Every municipality to which this part applies shall not cause any new employee above the age of forty years to come within the scope of the agreement filed by that municipality with the commission, under this section."

Subject to retiring ages in all classes.

"That section 45 of the Superannuation Act being chapter 247 of the Revised Statutes of British Columbia 1924, be amended by section 2, chapter 50 of the Statutes of British Columbia 1929, be repealed and that section 45 of the Superannuation Act, being chapter 247 of Revised Statutes of British Columbia 1924, be re-enacted. This cancels 1-50, re-enacts 1-75 for past service, and all grants pension in excess of $5000 per month for past service be adjusted on the same basis."

The following was adopted in principle:

"That Section 44 be amended by adding a section to preserve the accrued pension benefit of an employee who has had twenty years' service, who is dismissed, after enquiry by continued. "There is nothing to be gained by retiring from any movement."

Hope that Major Douglas would come from London to Alberta and aid in establishment of a Social Credit plan was expressed by Premier Aberhart.

Commenting on letters received since Major Douglas, founder of Social Credit, expressed his intention of resigning as reconstruction adviser to the government because of certain developments, Premier Aberhart said the public should not be too quick to form opinions.

MAN AND VIEWPOINT

After reading one critical letter, Premier Aberhart said:

"I am afraid too many of you are getting your eyes on the man. Some of the letters show the people are losing the viewpoint."

"My mind is centred on a higher issue and on higher power than that held by any man on earth."

REVENUE FROM TRACKS, POLES

Companies to Pay Vancouver
$157,500 a Year in Lieu of Taxation

Vancouver, March 9.—A compromise agreement whereby the city is to receive 1½ per cent of the gross revenues from the British Columbia Electric Railway Company and the British Columbia Telephone Company in lieu of taxation on tracks, poles, etc., has been accepted by the City Council.

Under the city charter the companies were assessed 1 per cent of their gross annual revenue derived within the city for their facilities on city streets.

Under the change, the city's revenue from this source will increase from about $105,000 to approximately $157,500 a year.

FURNITURE MEN ASK HIGHER DUTY

Ottawa, March 9.—The Tariff Board today heard representations of the Furniture Manufacturers' Association of Toronto, making the first appeal under new duties established under the Canada-United States trade agreement.

Most favored nation treatment under the agreement reduced the tariff on American-made furniture from 45 per cent to 30 per cent, less 10 per cent—27 per cent altogether.

A MESSAGE to Employers

Many well-known firms throughout Canada have adopted The Mutual Life "Salary Savings Plan" and are finding that it improves the morale and creates a better spirit between employer and employee.

Most salaried employees find it difficult to carry adequate amounts of insurance where premiums must be paid once, twice, or at most, four times a year. Under the Salary Savings Plan of The Mutual Life of Canada, employees are able to budget their "insurance savings" throughout the year in small monthly amounts, which are deducted from the pay cheques and remitted to The Mutual Life by the employer. Any standard plan of life insurance may be chosen by the employee, who pays the entire sum.

The advantage to employers where employees are providing for the years when they will have passed their periods of usefulness is obvious. The Plan helps your employees and their families to realize "the glorious privilege of being independent."

Details of the simple plan and the assistance given by The Mutual Life in putting it into operation will be furnished without obligation by any Mutual Life representative or by our Head Office.

NEWSPAPERMEN AHEAD OF ARMY

Two Correspondents, Visiting
Halifax, Tell How Writers
Entered Makale Before
Italian Troops Got Into
That Ethiopian City

Canadian Press
Halifax, March 9.—"Makale was taken by newspapermen," two members of the Fourth Estate declared here yesterday on their way from the land of the King of Kings to the land of the Rising Sun.

En route from Mussolini's battlefield to turbulent Japan, Mr. Mirschfeld, who writes for European newspapers under the name of Harry Gris, and Mr. Himmelhoch, whose journalistic pen name is Erell Brant, passed through here aboard the liner Pilsudski.

Both said they had spent the winter with the Italian troops and had been present at the capture of Addis Ababa and Makale. They said both Ethiopian cities had been taken without a shot being fired, although Addis Ababa announced thousands of troops of each side were killed in battles during the siege of the towns.

WITNESSES AHEAD OF ARMY
Nineteen newspapermen preceded the 150,000-man Italian army during the four-day, eight-five-mile march on Makale, they said, and were the first to meet Ras Gugsa, who mistook them for Italian army officers and announced to them their desertion from the defending forces of the African empire.

Makale was taken by two newspapermen, one a writer for The London Daily Telegraph and the other a photographer for The London Times," they said. "Those men were the leaders of the advancing horde."

Newspapermen with 11 Duc's army were distinguished during the campaign by wide armbands and given all the convenience of Italian officers, they said.

Mr. Himmelhoch was accompanied by his wife on his arrival here. They continued with the Pilsudski to New York.

French Urged To Remain Calm

As German Army Reoccupies
Rhineland Premier Sarraut Broadcasts Message to People of Republic

Canadian Press From Havas
Paris, March 9.—Premier Albert Sarraut yesterday evening appealed to the French people to remain calm, loyal and moderate in the face of the crisis precipitated by Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland.

In a nation-wide broadcast, Premier Sarraut accused the Reich of deliberately violating its international obligations.

M. Sarraut acknowledged that Germany, "having violated its pledges, proposed to contract some new ones," and added:

"We will not examine the proposals for two reasons—Firstly, because of the double example by which in one year Germany repudiated two of its treaty obligations; that is not calculated to give us confidence in new pledges. The second reason is even more definite. Scornful of the law itself, the German Government has sent important forces into the demilitarized zone, and that without having given any prior indication of its intentions of breaking its solemn pledges."

NO MORE PEACE
"There will not be any peace, there will be no more friendly relations among nations if this method becomes general. In rejecting such principles we are serving the interests of the European community."

"The government is resolved not to negotiate in the face of threats. The one fact stands out: The German soldier established on the banks of the Rhine for the moment precludes any negotiation."

"In the name of the French Government, we intend to maintain the essential guarantees of French and Belgian security, which, counter-signed by the British and Italian Governments, constitute the Treaty of Locarno."

Acclaimed as "the greatest of all great Hupmobiles," this new line introduces many revolutionary features which must enhance the popularity of the well-known car. Powered by a 101-horsepower engine in the six and 120-horsepower in the eight-cylinder line, smooth, reliable performance is assured. The interior finish and design has achieved an unusually pleasing effect, with upholstery "tailored by Lichter" and possessing a richness and quality that is unexcelled. This quality is matched by the fittings which harmonize with the tasteful scheme.

Mechanical features include Hupp hydraulic brakes, which only require toe-tip pressure for instant control in traffic, together with long-life, non-squeak moulded brake linings.

Unique among the fully modern all-stream-lined cars, the Hupmobile retains the distinctive design which has caused so much favorable comment. Strikingly beautiful color combinations are available in clay, rust, Bedford tan, deep green and platinum grey.

Cologne Events Stir Memories

German Reoccupation Brings
Back to Canadian Veterans
Days They Were There

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 9.—The tramp of Germany's field grey Reichswehr through the narrow and tortuous streets of Cologne stirred a familiar echo in the ears of Canadians who themselves traversed these same thoroughfares on December 13, 1918, bent on initiating the demilitarization of the Rhineland.

Within the shadow of the ancient cathedral, the air lively with the music of band and bagpipe, bugle and drum, the First Canadian Division strode across the "Neue Brücke" which spans the Rhine and connects Cologne proper to its trans-Rhine suburb, Cologne-Kalk.

At the same time, fifteen miles up-river, the 2nd Canadian Division crossed the ornate bridge joining the university town of Bonn to Beuel. East of the Rhine, the two divisions marched on converging routes, establishing contact again at Siegburg, about six miles northeast of Bonn. From there they spread fan-wise over a wide area, taking up, in the wooded mountains of the Rhineland, a Canadian "watch on the Rhine."

SUPPLIES WERE DELAYED
From Mons to Cologne the march occupied nearly a month, much of the delay being due to failure of railroads to arrive on schedule. Hundreds of miles of railway in Belgium had been destroyed by the Germans and all supply for troops east of Valenciennes had, for some considerable time, to be transported by motor truck. Militating against speedy delivery by that medium were bad roads, made worse where the Germans had mined them.

VAGUE LINE
The two veteran divisions of the Canadian Corps, commanded by the late Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, whose headquarters were in the residence of the Princess of Schomburg-Lippe at Bonn, garrisoned the bridgehead for nearly a month. The Canadian "outpost line" was a vague and indistinct thing, extending from southeast of the village of Neunkirchen in a wide semi-circle northward to Overath. On either side, British troops continued the perimeter of the circle back to the Rhine.

There was no line, merely a series of outposts. These were usually the strength of a platoon each, scattered through a country of lofty ridges, thickly wooded and broken by innumerable streams, in the district of "Koenigsforst," near the border of the Rhineland and Westphalia.

With little to do, the war over and railroads not always what they would like, the Canadians exercised their natural bent in sport and hunting.

The Canadians left the Rhineland in mid-January, 1919.

ITALIANS SEE SANCTIONS' END

Fascist Officials Believe Germany's Rhineland Move
Hastens Change

Associated Press
Rome, March 9.—Sanctions have received a "double death blow" from Italy's affirmative reply to Geneva's peace appeal and Adolf Hitler's violation of the Locarno treaty, in the opinion of high Fascist officials.

They said they believed these two actions would bring France around to urge not only the dropping of a proposed oil embargo against Italy, but also the gradual lifting of all sanctions.

They argued:
1. France will now see that Hitler was emboldened to take his drastic action by the encouragement he received from Premier Mussolini and by the tension between two guarantors of the Locarno Treaty, Great Britain and Italy, brought about by the Italo-Ethiopian war.

2. France will refuse to continue any longer on the sanctionist road which led to the belief that this will inevitably lead to an Italo-German line-up.

3. The League of Nations will have something even more important than sanctions to consider this week.

GERMANY AND LEAGUE
Fascists generally believed the conditions for Germany's re-entry into the League of Nations, laid down by Hitler, would help secure European peace.

Italy's note to Geneva was sent yesterday, including a number of conditions if Italy is to talk peace. It made clear Italy would stay in Ethiopia and will not surrender territory already occupied.

ST. CATHARINES STORE BURNED

Loss in Fire in Ontario City
Estimated at $150,000

St. Catharines, Ont., March 9.—Only a solitary weakened wall remained today of the Canadian Department Store, subsidiary of the T. Eaton Company, destroyed by a fire Saturday night that caused damage of $150,000. The fire started shortly before midnight.

The entire St. Catharines fire department, aided by the Merritt department, saved other buildings on St. Paul Street, main business thoroughfare of the city. Only the grocery section of the store, occupying a three-story building, was saved and it was damaged extensively by water and smoke.

DESIRE PEACE ON BROADER BASIS

Associated Press
Washington, March 9.—Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador to the United States and the man who signed the Locarno Pact for Germany, told newsmen here that a desire to establish a broader basis of peace in Europe had motivated Adolf Hitler in denouncing that treaty.

He said Germany was ready to adhere to the principles of Locarno on a basis of equality with all other nations.

NEW RULES IN FISHING TRADE

Start of Halibut Season Deferred Two Weeks; Big Boats Banned in Area No. 2

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 9.—Changes governing Pacific Coast halibut fishing and inspection of canned salmon are contained in orders-in-council published this week in the Canada Gazette.

One order-in-council authorizes regulations issued by the International Fisheries Commission under the Halibut Treaty between Canada and the United States. Washington has also ratified the changes.

Under these regulations the start of the halibut fishing season is deferred from March 1 till March 16 and all halibut fishing must end November 15 each year. Former regulations provided a quota of fish that could be caught and fishermen were permitted to work until this quota was reached.

FOR SMALLER CRAFT
Big fishing boats, known as dories, will not be allowed to employ hand gurdy fishing in area No. 2, the British Columbia coast. It is felt that area should be reserved for smaller craft.

The order-in-council dealing with canned salmon consolidates all existing regulations and reduces inspection fees from one cent to half a cent a case.

After April 1 all inspection of canned salmon will be conducted by Department of Fisheries officers instead of men in the salmon brokerage business.

The practice of soldering a new top over the old stamp on a can of salmon found to be of inferior grade remains unchanged. This practice has been the subject of complaints on the claim the covering is sometimes removed and inferior goods go out as No. 1 quality.

Canada Is Among Locarno Spectators

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 9.—Government officials today watched closely and with keen interest developments in Europe started by Germany's denunciation of the Locarno Security Pact, but they emphasized Canada was not directly obligated by Locarno. The Locarno Pact, signed by the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Germany and Italy, contains a clause specifically stating the British dominions would not be obligated in any way under its provisions unless they signed it themselves.

None of them signed, so that Germany's action interests them only as spectators.

A GRAVE SITUATION

THE DISPATCH OF GERMAN TROOPS to the Rhineland has created a situation in Europe which is much graver than any other development in international affairs since the Great War. During the next few weeks war clouds will lower heavily over the horizon, and all the resources of cool-headed statesmanship will be required to remove or moderate the elements of combustion. Much will depend upon the reaction of France to the Hitler coup. In the negotiation of the Treaty of Versailles the French government was more specific in insuring the protection of the eastern frontier against a war of revenge by Germany than it was in regard to any other condition. This and the disarmament of the Teutonic alliance were the key requirements of the French demand. Now both of those conditions have been violated by Germany.

Years ago Germany began to rearm, at first secretly, and then openly with the declaration that in this and other respects the Treaty of Versailles was a scrap of paper. With the emergence of Hitlerized nationalism—which means the recrudescence of Prussian militarism—came the announcement that Germany meant to regain everything of which the treaty of peace had deprived her, while unofficially Hitler in a book forecast another programme of aggression against Germany's neighbors, with the conquest of the Ukraine in Russia as a special objective.

The Treaty of Versailles provided that "Germany must not maintain or construct any fortifications less than fifty kilometres to the east of the Rhine. In the above area Germany may maintain no armed forces, either permanent or temporary, nor hold any manoeuvres nor maintain any works for facilitating mobilization." This really was a modification of the original demands of Marshal Foch and other French military leaders that France should have the left bank of the Rhine, and they always doubted that the demilitarization clause of the treaty would serve France's defensive purposes. The skepticism of the French war chiefs at that time has been vindicated by events, which, as a matter of fact, antedated the open march of German troops into the Rhineland by some years, because there is little doubt that the so-called police which Germany maintained in large numbers in that territory were nothing less than camouflaged German fighting forces.

The Treaty of Locarno, the product of Sir Austen Chamberlain, Aristide Briand and Herr Stresemann, before the advent of Nazism when the atmosphere of continental Europe was relatively pacific, was designed to preserve the salient provisions of the Treaty of Versailles, to put Franco-German relations on a friendly basis and to insure the security of the chief interested nations against unprovoked attack. In marching into the Rhineland, therefore, Germany has not only torn another page from the original peace treaty but has thrown overboard the pact which guaranteed her against aggression just as definitely as it did France and Belgium.

France, ever sensitive to any menace from the Rhineland, has met what she regards as a threat against her vital, first, by appealing to the League of Nations, second, by canceling the leave of her soldiers and strengthening the forces on her eastern frontier, and, third, by securing from Great Britain the declaration that she still considers herself bound by the Treaty of Locarno which in the case of an attack by Germany would bind her to go to the support of the French. France also is in close contact with Russia with whom she recently negotiated an agreement of mutual security, while we may be sure she is tightening her relations with the Little Entente. It may be that the announcement of Mr. Eden in the House of Commons that Britain still considers herself to be bound by the Locarno agreement will allay French fears, and it may be taken for granted that British restraining pressure will be heavily exercised upon French policy at this moment. Another French expedition into German territory like her march into the Ruhr a few years ago would precipitate war.

It is true that Hitler, in explaining Germany's troop movement into the Rhineland, adopted a conciliatory attitude. He offered non-aggression pacts with the Reich's neighbors, agreed to a new demilitarization arrangement, and to return to the League of Nations. Indeed, on the surface he appeared to proffer a foundation for an entirely new deal upon which might be based an understanding which would eliminate the provocative features of the Treaty of Versailles. But France will not take Hitler's proposals at their face value. She will consider them in the light of bitter experience in which one-tenth of her territory was under German occupation for more than four years, and the studied, deliberate violation by Germany of her covenants since then. She will recall the repudiation of reparations, the secret rearmament, the bellicose speeches of Hitler, the blood purges, the racial persecution, the aspiration of the Krupps and Thyssens and the rise to power of the German military caste in the person of General Blomberg. It must be confessed that she has every reason to distrust anything that Hitler may offer to cover up what she regards as a potential menace to her security.

Russia's reaction will be scarcely less definite than that of France, for Hitler's statement was charged with hatred against her, and obviously, was designed to create a new anti-Russian combination. Nothing could have been more maladroit than the declaration that Germany was scuttling the Locarno pact because France and Russia had negotiated an agreement for mutual security, and, combined with the German troop advancement into the Rhineland, it was an act of stupendous folly which reflects the fearful deficiencies of present German leadership.

It must be confessed, however, that Hitler's irruption is not at all surprising. From the very moment the League of Nations withheld its hand when Japan began to loot northern China, it was inevitable that before long some other military dictatorship would threaten the peace of the world. The Fascist dictator of Italy embarked upon a war of conquest in East Africa and France used her influence upon the League to prevent the adoption of real drastic measures against this violator of its covenant. That Hitler has been largely influenced by the comparative immunity these war-makers have enjoyed is beyond question. In this case, however, the violation affects France's vital interests and her attitude in the League will be correspondingly direct and definite.

RAMSAY MACDONALD

OPINIONS, OF COURSE, DIFFER about the political life and actions of former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald; but it will be generally conceded that he always did what he thought was right—and, as is very often the case, got little thanks for the course he steered. The following extract from a report of the parliamentary correspondent of a well-known daily, however, imparts a humorous touch which even Mr. MacDonald himself probably enjoyed. We quote:

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, looking very self-conscious and uncomfortable, re-entered Parliament yesterday as member for the combined Scottish Universities.

His entry into the Chamber between Mr. Baldwin and Sir John Simon was the signal for government cheers and opposition boos.

That irrepressible City-desiderer, Mr. J. McGovern, called out, "Laurel and Hardy!" Another was shouted, "mother and prodigal son!"

Mr. MacDonald made two dignified little bows, took the oath and signed the roll amid a perfect fusillade of cheers and jeers.

Having shaken hands warmly with the Speaker, he rapidly retired behind the Chair, followed quickly by Mr. Baldwin. As they passed out of view, a member of the opposition called out, "and that's that."

Since Mr. MacDonald entered into a political contract with men in British public life who considered him for years anathema to them it has been difficult for the man from Lossiemouth to hold his end up and retain his old Socialist-Labor point of view in his dealings with Parliament and public. He became a very lonely Prime Minister of what, to all intents and purposes, was an ultra-Tory government. Still, he was the first Labor Prime Minister Great Britain ever had.

CHILD'S PROSPECTS

AN ECONOMIST AT THE UNIVERSITY of Wisconsin, Dr. O. E. Baker, expresses the sincere hope that his boy, now five, will eventually become a farmer. This is why, reasons the professor:

"The farmer has better food, even in times of depression, than his city neighbors; he has better health; he can accumulate more property; he is more likely to enjoy his work than town people; finally, and most important, the farmer is more likely to rear a family and do his part to promote the general welfare of the nation."

From that viewpoint, this economist's ambition for his boy ought to set up an example for many other urban fathers.

In any event it is one bet in their children's future that parents can not afford to overlook.

And, incidentally, laying aside the customary jibes directed at farm life, agriculture, in the final analysis, is the nation's fundamental business.

RECIPROCALLY AGREED

TWO EMINENT OBSERVERS, ONE IN each country, reassure Canadians and Americans, dissipating any remaining doubts as to the value of the Canada-United States Reciprocity Treaty.

Ex-Premier Bennett of Canada: "It is detrimental to the interests of this Dominion because it gives everything we have and gets little in return."

Ex-President Hoover of United States: "It is more of the more abundant life—for Canadians."

Thus two great minds demonstrate reciprocal unanimity across the boundary line.

The Great War ended with a revolution in Germany in which the Kaiser and some of the Prussian war leaders hastily fled. The revolution was arrested largely by the allies who provided the German provisional government with funds and other means of suppressing it. If they had permitted the upheaval to run its logical course, the German people would have cut out of their country's life every element which was likely to produce the nationalism which endangers the peace of Europe. Instead, by arresting the revolt, by exposing Germany to the underground conspiracies of the old gang, they paved the way for the abolition of the republic and enthronement of Hitlerism.

There is something fine about the "mercy flight" of "Ginger" Coote who piloted his plane to bring out from the upper reaches of the North Thompson River Dan Crowley to Williams Lake. Crowley was suffering from gangrene and frozen feet. Coote took a chance himself; but he did a good job. One single error in flying skill would have been the end of him—and Dan Crowley.

What Other Papers Say

A "TECHNOLOGICAL FATHEAD"
The Atchison Globe

Man struggled for hundreds of years to find means of relieving himself of work. Out of that effort grew machinery. And now man finds himself out of a job. We greatly fear man is a "fathead."

WHAT A NEWSPAPER!
The Hamilton Herald

Many hours have passed since The Mail and Empire denied the charge of Premier Hepburn that the Ottawa Valley power contract was put through to help that newspaper, which is owned by I. W. Killam, also head of the power firm.

We still feel no impulse to be drawn into this debate—have next to nothing to say about it—but find that our eyes persist in wandering back lovingly, tenderly, to one passage in that denial, that goes: "The Mail and Empire has never been in difficulties, financial or otherwise."

What a newspaper! What heaven on earth! Let that forever, down through all the ages that are to come, be the mark of The Mail's fame.

Never before in this relatively dreary world has there been a publication utterly and completely "without difficulties."

Across The Bay

The birds come out in the spring—a lady knits alarmingly—Mr. Aberhart tells a story—a rebellion breaks out—and there is news at the Boggs's house.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

SPRING

WHAT A SATISFACTION it is to observe at this season the immemorial surge of humanity back to the earth. On all sides you can observe it with the first croak of the frogs, the first touch of spring—poor working men digging up their little plots of ground, stout executives, in white collars and new garden gloves, feebly forking over their perennial beds and suffering acutely with stiff backs, ladies even foregoing their afternoon bridge to weed their rock plants.

It is charming. It shows you how the race invigorates itself, recovers something of its lost youth in the spring from forces that rise eternal out of the good earth. Yes, watch this phenomenon. Watch it closely and marvel, for it will not last long. By May this great horde of birds who come with the spring will have disappeared again, after a brief migration. The stout executive will have relapsed into golf and lower vices. The ladies will have gone back to their bridge. Only a few faithful souls like you and I will remain, perhaps not even you. Spring doesn't last long nowadays.

KNITTER

YOU WILL REMEMBER in "The Tale of Two Cities" the grisly Madame Defarge, who used to sit in her window shop knitting into a huge blanket the names of the aristocrats who were to visit the guillotine a little later on, when the revolution broke out.

Well, it is a little disconcerting for us old-timers in the Legislature to observe a lady who has been coming year after year, sitting in the gallery, watching the House with a baleful eye, and knitting incessantly. We often wonder what names are going into her knitting.

LAUGH

PREMIER ABERHART, the Messiah of the Plains, and a very sincere man, has lately got into trouble with the pious. According to Time, he recently told a funny story on the radio which offended the delicate susceptibilities of the Albertans. It is the kind of funny smoking-room story which this family newspaper would not permit in this column, so I am unable to elaborate it.

But what I can't understand is why Mr. Aberhart needed to tell a funny story to amuse his radio audience in the same week when he was setting up two royal commissions to find out the kind of funny smoking-room story which this family newspaper would not permit in this column, so I am unable to elaborate it.

CRISIS

IT NOW DEVELOPS that the recent haggis crisis here was not a local problem at all. It was world wide. The Bureau Club of Vancouver had to import its haggis from Vancouver, because no one can import the true product from Scotland itself. Nay, it is revealed in the Canadian Parliament that while Scottish haggis is barred from Canada because it might bring foot and mouth disease to this country, Scotsmen are brutally told to get their haggis from France; which is precisely like telling a Jew to eat pork from Germany.

It was humiliating enough to be compelled to import haggis from Vancouver, where there may be some Scotsmen who can make a good imitation.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"And the moon's surface contains about 14,657,000 square miles, or nearly four times the area of Europe."

tion of it, but there is something more behind this movement to force French haggis upon us. This is no accident. Nor is it any excuse to suggest, because we Scots ordinarily live on oats and other foods usually consumed by cattle, as the great Dr. Johnson pointed out long ago in his dictionary, that we are liable, therefore, to foot and mouth disease.

No, this embargo on the true Scottish haggis, this attempt to humiliate us with French substitutes, is a deeper conspiracy and measures must be taken to meet it.

LUCKY BOGGS

THEY GOT quintuplets at the Boggs's house, the little girl from next door announced to me a few minutes ago, and after what Mrs. Noggins has been telling me about approaching events in that household, I must say I was rather alarmed.

"She means there's three of them," said the little boy from next door.

"Certainly there's three," said she. "I said quintuplets. The cutest ones you ever saw. My, but they're soft and white."

"Only about so big," said he. "Not as big as Smokey, even."

"They can hardly stand up yet," said she. "Fudgum took one of them because the Boggs couldn't afford to feed it. Quintuplets are expensive."

"It's got another mother now," said he.

"They're going to bring it back," said she, "as soon as it can eat solid food."

"Mr. Boggs," said he, "is very pleased with them. He only expected twins and maybe only one. God is good to Mr. Boggs because he is a kind man. He once gave me a nickel."

"They're expecting some more yet," said she. "Soon they'll have so many lambs at the Boggs that they won't know what to do with them."

deducted, let those affected speak for themselves?

If the government wanted to be fair they would send a full copy of the act to each of the $1,800 or less class and get their yes or no on the adoption of this act, and no doubt 99.9 per cent would reject it.

If this thing must come it should be done by and in the same manner as the Income Tax. If a wage-earner who earns the small income is not required to pay, why should he be required to pay twice as much on "Health Insurance" something he can do without and is not necessary?

It seems to be poor logic.

Is it constitutional to select one class of the state, extract money from one to give another?

Neither have adequate. It is like betting on horse races. If we should all win we could not get our money back because of the amount needed for overhead.

ESQUIMALT POLICE

TO THE EDITOR:—In today's issue of The Daily Times there is a report of a meeting of the Esquimalt Board of Police Commissioners. Citizens of Esquimalt who are anxious to retain the present efficient police service should take note of it.

I wish to remind the people of Esquimalt of the following fact: The chief of police who has been in the office of Esquimalt for many years is a man of high integrity and efficiency.

He has been given the opportunity of being dismissed without being given a fair hearing.

At the last municipal election one of the two individuals who were responsible for this procedure was a candidate backed by the Ratepayers' Association, and was defeated.

If the two representatives of the Ratepayers' Association who are now in office as police commissioners have any intention of disrupting the present police service, now is the time for vigilance.

Let the people of Esquimalt understand that if they will not take the trouble to protect good policemen when they have them, we are likely to get policemen who will be more interested in keeping friendly relations with the police than in doing their duty in law enforcement.

CATHEDRAL GROVE

TO THE EDITOR:—It is with more than ordinary concern that I have followed the reports in your pages dealing with the proposed destruction of "Cathedral Grove" by certain logging interests. In company, I am sure, with many other citizens I have until recently, been under the impression that this beautiful area of virgin timber had been presented to the people of the province by the late F. J. Barnum, and was therefore assured immunity from the unhappy fate of all our other big trees.

Would it be asking too much of a favor, Mr. Editor, for you through the medium of your newspaper to explain just why and to whom we are likely to lose "Cathedral Grove"?

By so doing, I am sure you would be rendering a true public service, which would be appreciated by all lovers of the outdoors. Thanking you, I am,

REGINALD J. SHANKS.

CAST CHOSEN FOR OPERETTA

The task of choosing the large cast of principals for the operetta, "Princess Ju-Ju," was not an easy one, and it was only after considerable thought that the selection was finally made. One of the greatest difficulties encountered, of course, was to find boys big enough for the major characters, but whose voices were not in that delightful transitional stage to the lower depths. The cast chosen is as follows: Princess Ju-Ju, Netta Hunter; La-la, Fly-Fly, Sing-Song (maidens attendant on princess), Lois Keeler, Joan Toms and Gloria Park; Lunar (spirit of the night), Hilda Jacques; Click, Muriel Zala; Moonlight, Thelma Gasts; Emperor Hokipokittipitop, Richard Warner; Ching Ching (his adviser), Hugh Ramsay; Prince O Shee Ma Guin, Robert McMillan; Prince Fu Shu, John Banister; Prince Go Bang, Douglas George; Abud Hiram (a magician), Ken Crookston; executioner, Peter Henderson; executioner's assistant, Billy Booth; messenger, Ralph Clarke.

The play will be produced on Friday, March 13 and Saturday, March 14.

Ethiopians To Execute General

Addis Ababa, March 9.—A report received here said Patawa Addema had been condemned to die by an imperial court of inquiry which found him partly to blame for Ethiopian reverses in the south.

Although authorities would not reveal the exact charges lodged against Addema and his fellow generals, some quarters said they were accused of high treason.

More than a score of civilians were reported killed or wounded when seven Italian planes bombed the neighborhood of Jiran heavily on Saturday for the first time.

DUNCAN

Duncan, March 7.—Cowichan Chapter Imperial Order Daughters of Empire met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Kyle Wednesday afternoon, the regent, Mrs. N. E. Suddaby, presiding. An invitation to the regent, the executive and Mrs. H. P. Swan, provincial councillor, was received from the C. G. Palmer Chapter, inviting them to a meeting on Saturday at the home of Mrs. O. C. Brown, when Mrs. P. E. Corby, provincial organizing secretary of Victoria, will present the chapter with their charter.

Reports were received from the educational and economic secretaries. Mrs. Christmas gave a report of the Health Centre, and Mrs. Kyle reported the needs of the chapter's room in the hospital.

Conveners of committees were appointed as follows: Hospital, Mrs. K. A. Kyle; Peace River, Mrs. J. B. Green; and Mrs. A. J. Johnston; war memorial, Mrs. F. H. Price; distinguished visitors, Mrs. G. W. Bisset; immigration, Mrs. E. M. Dawson-Thomas; press, Mrs. E. W. Carr; Hilton; empire study, Mrs. H. P. Swan.

Carrying out the plan of empire study, Mrs. Suddaby read a paper on the events of King George's reign, giving extracts from John Buchan's book, "The King's Grace." Mrs. Price read an article entitled "From Prince to King," and Mrs. H. P. Swan gave an account of her recent trip to the east, when she attended the meeting of the national chapter in Toronto.

Mrs. Dawson-Thomas gave a reading on current events.

The sum of $15.05, made at the recent Founders' Day tea, was voted to the endowment fund.

Mrs. Suddaby was appointed delegate to the annual meeting of the provincial chapter to be held in April in Vancouver.

The Duncan School Board met Wednesday evening, O. T. Smythe being in the chair. The scale of grants for teachers' salaries was received, showing a slight increase for 1936, commencing April 1. A request to do book repairing in the school was received and referred to the school management committee. The accident insurance was renewed with the Canadian Indemnity Company.

The question of too much homework in some grades was brought to the attention of the board. This was referred to the school management committee to take up with the principal.

The question of accommodation is before the board and considerable discussion took place on this matter.

LIGHT OPERA WAS SUCCESS

Eurydice Art Club to Be Commended For Fine Singing, Acting and Dancing

Once again that energetic body of musical young people, banded together as the Eurydice Art Club, has appeared before a Victoria audience, and proved itself quite capable of living up to a splendid record established in the past.

At the Empire Theatre on Saturday evening these young people presented Edward German's tuneful and clever comic opera, "Merrie England" and the audience evidently thoroughly enjoyed the performance.

It is no easy thing for a group of young people to take such an opera and stage it successfully. Quite naturally, there were weak parts, but such weaknesses no doubt helped in the general interest. The singing of the chorus was exceptionally good; the principals all were happy choices, and the costumes, scenery and incidental dances added color to the performance.

The first act took place beside the River Thames, with Windsor Castle in the distance, while the second act was arranged in a forest glade of Windsor Great Park.

THE PRINCIPALS

The principals were all worthy of praise, but special mention should certainly go to Miss Alisa Barclay and Norman Tyrrell. Miss Barclay's sweet soprano voice was heard to good advantage in the role of Jill and Mr. Tyrrell was most noted for his presentation of witty dialogue.

Miss Phyllis Deaville is now one of Victoria's leading operatic singers, and she was quite as good Saturday in the role of Beesie Throckmorton as ever she has been in any other light opera.

CLEVER DANCING

A good deal of work had apparently gone into the arrangement of the Egyptian dance ensemble, which was under the direction of Miss Mary T. Hughes.

This dance lent a colorful splash to the performance. The dancers were Miss Hughes, who did a solo part with much skill; Jean Ray, Flossie Ray, Eva Aldridge, Phyllis Going, Irene Birkett, Dorothy McVie, Margaret McVie and Betty Fawcett.

In the chorus were Francis Wale, Ann Moyes, Gertie Moyes, Elsie Pinlayson, Peggy Mulliner, Leslie Macdonald, Jean Macdonald, Margaret Hunter, Betty Thompson, Laura MacBride, Isobel Ramsay, Cynthia Fairweather, Molly Edgar, Dorrie Wright, Marjory Symonds, Francis Woods, Clara Birkett, Phyllis Going, Janet Entertainment was provided by Miss Doreen Wilson, Miss Vivien Combe, Miss J. E. M. Bruce, Miss Barbara Bullock-Webster, Miss Muriel Richards and W. H. Herbert.

Next Monday night at 8.30 o'clock the Crystal Garden pool will witness the holding of the annual display by the women's and men's swimming groups. A full programme of events has been made up to include beginners, intermediate and advanced swimming, as well as water polo, diving and life-saving exhibitions. Over 100 members will take part in the events, prizes for which will be presented by the provincial director, Jan Eisenhardt. The next swimming class will be on the Wednesday of the following week, when the classes will be for men and ladies.

Perennial Plants Demand Little Attention Once They Are Given a Good Start

Note the large sturdy stalks of these two welcome perennials—rhubarb, at right, and asparagus, above. Rhubarb is the earliest spring garden crop and forms a good spring tonic. Asparagus is never so good as when it is cut and ready to serve in an hour or two.

Editor's Note:—This is the fifth of a series of articles on gardening by budget.

By PROF. C. H. NISSELY

No back garden is complete without some perennial fruit and vegetable plants—the kind which survive freezing weather and produce crops year after year, requiring comparatively little attention. Perennial vegetables include asparagus, rhubarb and horseradish; perennial fruits include strawberries, raspberries, currants, gooseberries, blackberries and grapes.

Plant perennial fruits and vegetables at one side of the garden, where they will not interfere with the cultivation of annuals.

Asparagus, an early garden crop, will yield for as long as sixteen years. Plant asparagus early, as soon as the ground can be prepared. Set out one-year-old roots of the rust-resistant Washington variety. Buy them from a reliable source.

Dig a furrow about eight inches wide and twelve inches deep and place two inches of good top soil in it, making the depth of the furrow about eight to ten inches when the roots are planted. Then spread the roots along the bottom of the furrow, about sixteen inches apart in the row, and cover them with about two inches of good soil. Rows should be at least four and a half, or five feet apart.

As the young roots develop, gradually pull the soil into the furrow so that level cultivation may be practiced by midsummer.

Don't cut asparagus the first year. The second year, a few of the large spears may be cut for about two weeks. The third year, asparagus may be harvested for about five or six weeks and from the fourth year on, cutting may be done until July 1.

Rhubarb is a popular, early spring vegetable, and if you will plant five or six clumps of it, there should be enough to supply the wants of a family of five persons, with some left for the neighbors. The roots should be cut up, leaving one or not more than two eyes to each part, and planted at least four feet apart in the row. Rhubarb may be pulled the second season.

Horseradish is particularly adapted to moist or low spots and does not require much attention after the roots have been planted.

A row of strawberries should be found in every permanent garden. Where a small quantity is grown, the berries may be mulched, fertilized, and the soil covered, if dry weather occurs when the berries are developing. In selecting a variety, consult a local nursery or a local gardener who grows the berries.

Raspberries, currants, gooseberries and blackberries should be planted in early spring. Raspberries and blackberries are set sixteen to twenty inches apart in rows, with the rows five to six feet apart. By pruning and thinning every year, the plants will be kept within their bounds and will produce finer berries.

A few grape vines, either on a trellis or trained on an arbor along one side of the garden, will provide the family with grapes for eating as well as for the making of jams, jellies and grape-juice.

Next: Cultivation and insect control.

Westinghouse Refrigerators

P. D. Ferguson of Vancouver Tells Local Dealers of 1936 Models

P. D. Ferguson, director of sales, refrigeration branch of the company, Vancouver, was host to members of the Kent Piano Company and the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, Westinghouse refrigerator representatives in Victoria, and their staffs, at dinner in the Empress Hotel Friday night.

Mr. Ferguson, with T. M. Blair, director of sales for the company, came to show the company's representatives here the new D line of refrigerators now on the market for 1936, which is the golden jubilee of the company.

S. J. Halls, manager of the light and power department of the B.C.E.R., represented his company and acted as chairman. Colonel M. Aubrey Kent represented the Kent Piano Company. F. F. McKettrick, merchandising sales manager for the B.C. Electric, was also a guest at the dinner.

Mr. Ferguson presented a thorough outline of the Westinghouse 1936 line of refrigerators which comprise, he pointed out, a number of exceptionally important operating features and changes of design that placed the product in the front rank of refrigerating units in Canada with practically no advance in price. There were, he said, ten refrigerators in the 1936 line. Five of them were on exhibition following the dinner; glistening white modernistic cabinets in dully finish, with brass chrome hardware, designed for "built-in" floor installations.

Mr. Ferguson said it was surprising the number of architects who wrote to the company offices for specifications for "built-in" installations.

MOISTURE-PROOF CABINET

Westinghouse engineers, Mr. Ferguson said, had concentrated for several years on the production of an absolutely moisture-proof cabinet and had succeeded in constructing a cabinet for the 1936 line of welded steel that made it impossible for moisture to enter the insulation chambers.

The refrigerators, this year, will have the new type of froster that will not chip and by designing a greater metal space, the company, Mr. Ferguson claimed, had produced the fastest freezing refrigerator on the market. There is also a new ice cube device. It is simple and removes the frozen cubes from the container without the necessity of placing the container under the water tap. It is made of flexible steel that can be "twisted" and "bent" to free the ice cubes from the separator. It cannot be twisted or bent out of shape.

Referring to Westinghouse operations, Mr. Ferguson said his company did not come definitely into the refrigerator market until around 1929, somewhat later than other companies. It was, he said, because Westinghouse engineers, with the company's reputation to preserve, refused to put a unit on the market until they were satisfied it was the best. Westinghouse continued to show increases in sales year by year until, at the close of 1935, the company had topped the list of sales for Canada.

Mr. Hall, the chairman, paid tribute to the Westinghouse Company for, he said, "its fifty years of service to humanity." He extended thanks, on behalf of the guests, to Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Blair.

Chemainus

Chemainus, March 9.—The business meeting of Chemainus Women's Benefit Association was held March 8 in the Recreation Hall, Mrs. Underwood presiding.

Arrangements were made for a card party and dance on March 10.

Mrs. O'Brien, field director, will be present at the next meeting on March 19. The open social arranged for that date has been postponed. Mrs. Murray reported for the sick committee for visits made during the month.

Miss Wesley Morris entertained at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Deanie Cathey, a bride-elect. The reception rooms were decorated in a color scheme of green and yellow.

From the center of the chandelier was suspended a wedding-bell decorated by tiny hearts and silver streamers. Miss Cathey was seated in a chair, and a shower of confetti was released over her head as a preliminary to the gift presentation.

Later, court whist was played, the winners being Mrs. H. Wilkinson and Miss P. O'Reil. A special prize was won by Mrs. Wilkinson. On a special table decorated with vases of daffodils, tall yellow tapers in silver holders was a two-tier bride cake, which Miss Cathey cut.

The refreshments carried out the color scheme, the cakes and ices being in pale green and yellow. Mrs. Morris was assisted in serving by Mrs. J. Lapley, Miss Lorraine Todd and Miss Doris Parker.

Movies in which actors "stand out from the screen" and appear in relief have been produced with experimental apparatus devised by Dr. Herbert Ives, in New York.

STORIES IN STAMPS

HAVEN FOR THE CONDEMNED

Every once in a while a small boat is washed ashore on the island of Trinidad, off the northeast coast of South America, and two or three exhausted, unkempt men drag themselves out in relief. They are convicts from that dread Devil's Island, who took a chance against the sea and won. Having landed on this British isle, they are safe from return to their tragic exile.

Port of Spain, capital of this island where lakes of asphalt exist, is a city as magnificent as it is hard to approach. When Columbus sighted the giant rocks that rose as guardians against outsiders, he called them "Bocas del Dragon," or the Dragon's Mouths. There are four of these stern sentinels, passages so narrow and treacherous that only experienced navigators can guide their ships through them.

The Country Doctor

A Novelization of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Starring the Dionne Quintuplets, Jean Hersholt, Dorothy Peterson, June Lang, Michael Whalen and Slim Summerville

CHAPTER XIII

Before 9 o'clock, Dr. Luke was on his way back to the Asa Wyatts' house. You learn to do with but little sleep when you are a country doctor, and besides that, there was no sleeping anyway. The telephone rang continually. Long-distance calls from Montreal, from Detroit, New York, Chicago, Cleveland. What was needed? What could be sent the babies? How did it all happen, Doctor? He had already told his story five times over the telephone, outlined the babies' desperate needs if they were to live, appealed for any and all help that could be given.

But beyond all this hubbub, there were five little living things in a basket out at the Asa Wyatts'. He felt as though he could hear their feeble cries as he backed his car out of the yard and started for the rocky little farm on the edge of the woods.

Picking up another nurse to relieve Miss Kennedy, the doctor set out again for the Wyatt place, fearful of what he might find there when he arrived.

Quintuplets

After all, no such five babies had ever lived more than a few hours! His head whirled with the possibility, the bare possibility, that these babies might be pulled through. The rugged people of the northland, with their large families! The clean pine-woods air, comparatively free from bacteria. The Wyatts' other six husky little children. By Jove, yes! There might be a chance! He would fight it out!

Such thoughts filled the doctor's mind on the rough ride to the Wyatts' channel, he saw, through which a friendly and sympathetic curiosity was being satisfied.

Meanwhile Sir Basil had another inspiration. He called Dr. Paul Luke at the Curson Street Hospital.

"Ah, there, Doctor!" he beamed through the transmitter. "Quite an interesting affair up there in Moosetown, eh? I wanted you to know that, of course, we've always had the fullest confidence in your brother—yes, the company would be more than glad to co-operate in any possible way. Perhaps we might be able to arrange to have some mothers' milk sent to the—ah, children?"

Dr. Paul was slightly annoyed. "Very good of you, indeed, Sir Basil," he replied. "But this hospital and several others have been sending an adequate supply since the second day."

"H'm—aw, splendid," stammered Sir Basil. "If there is—ah—anything at all the company can do, I trust you will call on us. If you go up there yourself, I trust you will convey my congratulations to your brother."

"Yes, I'll tell him," replied Dr. Paul, amused now. "I do plan to go up there soon." Then he rang off.

"Old stuffed shirt!" muttered Dr. Paul to himself. "Nothing for Moosetown all these years. Now that they have got a public miracle under way, nothing's too much for them."

Miracle it was, for every hour, every day, every week added to the lives of the babies, broke another medical record.

The first week or so was a nightmare for Dr. Luke. Called from his bed at all hours, by telephone calls and poundings at his front door, he had to respond also to frantic emergency calls from the Wyatt home, and besides all this keep up the regular practice which again leaped upward with the departure of Dr. Wilson.

The entire Wyatt home had to be reorganized as a nursery, screens placed on windows to guard against the vicious black flies and mosquitoes. Long lines of diapers appeared in the back yard, and a laundry system began.

The older Wyatt children remained at a neighbor's when several of them developed bronchitis. There was no room for them in the tiny Wyatt home anyway, with three nurses and a cook and "hospital orderlies" on hand.

Mrs. Wyatts was soon up and around, and doing her share of the work, oscillating between her own home and that of the neighbor who was keeping her other children. Asa spent a great deal of time at the village store. His initial shyness began to disappear, and he soon began to blossom into a person of importance. Constant posing before the insatiable newspaper cameras had its share in this.

In the evening Dr. Luke tried to hide away in his study, to avoid the general hubbub. Even that haven was denied him, for the doorbell rang constantly. Promoters seeking his approval of this or that proposition for exploiting the miraculous children, producers of baby foods and supplies seeking endorsement, newspapermen and women imploring him to "give them a few starts on the case." So bad did this get that Dr. Luke was more than half inclined not to answer the bell one night when it interrupted him for the twentieth time. But he went wearily to the door and opened it.

Mary MacKenzie stood before him.

"Why come in, Mary? Is there? Your Daddy's arm getting on all right?" Mary was obviously distressed. She sat nervously in a chair below the shelves of books that rose to the ceiling, twisting a handkerchief in her hands. Her eyes cast downward toward her nervously-moving hands, but she came finally to the point.

"Dr. Luke," she said, "have you heard anything from Tony? Is he all right?"

"Why, yes," responded the doctor. "I had a short note from him last week. He's back in medical school, and I had a note from my brother that mentioned that he was doing well."

"I'm so glad," Mary's relief was obvious. "You see—" she added hesitantly. "I haven't had a letter from him in a long time. I had one or two—and I'm not sure, but I think father's holding them up. I saw him go out to the mail box the other day, and tear up a letter. It was just when I was expecting to hear from Tony, and—"

"H'm!" The doctor said nothing, but indignation welled within him. "I think maybe we can fix up a little plan—"

CHAPTER XXIV

The girl stared back at Michael Heather, her pupils dilating oddly. "You win," she said quietly.

Katharine . . . His arms were around her now, his breath was on her cheek. "You mean—you'll actually marry me?"

She looked straight ahead, her hands gripping the wheel. "I'll do that."

The die was cast. She couldn't turn back now. She knew in her soul if she turned Michael over to those detectives she would be tormented all her life long. She couldn't think of Sally Moon now—nor of anything else—

"Drive on then," the man cried exultantly. "We can get a special license in Connecticut."

Long afterward the girl thought some special madness must have possessed her that day. She could not remember quite clearly by what devious route they arrived at the shabby, shingled house in the little, sleepy village. The frayed clergyman who examined their papers did not seem to find the situation at all odd. He accepted them and their demand quite calmly.

As if in a dream the girl heard the words, "I, Katharine, take thee, Michael . . ."

A woman came out of the kitchen, wiping her floured hands, to sign the papers . . .

Then they were back in the car again, Katharine's hands on the wheel. The simple gold band, bought in that same sleepy town, glimmered against her finger.

It wasn't real. It couldn't be. Yet there was Michael beside her. And in the back of the car were the drug store packages, the forgotten library book, to remind her of home, of duties.

Katharine turned a scandalized face to his. "Bertine—my step-mother! She'll be expecting me back. She'll be half mad. What time is it?"

Michael consulted his watch. "Half past two."

Half past two. And it had been 10 o'clock when Katharine had stepped out of the drug store into broiling Main Street. She was married now. She was this man's wife . . .

"Michael," she said frantically. "You must wait here. In there is a hotel or something? I'll go back to Innbrook and get some money—throw some things into a bag."

She had promised to go with him, for better or for worse. In sickness and in health. Something wild and free within herself exulted at the thought. This lean, smiling young man was her husband. No one could take him from her.

He glanced away, avoiding her eyes. "Do you think I'm going to let you go now? We can telephone your stepmother . . ."

Suddenly it seemed to Katharine that if Bertine knew it would spoil everything. Bertine, prying and questioning, weeping perhaps and talking of the shame and disgrace of it.

"No," she said gently. "But now we must plan what to do when we go. Shall we go west again—or is it—would it be uncomfortable for you?"

She asked this haltingly. Now that she was his wife, perhaps Michael Heather would tell her why those grim men with badges were looking for him.

"No—not very," said Michael. If she hadn't known the affair was so serious, she would have sworn there was amusement lurking in his eyes.

"Katharine, can you realize it?" he asked huskily after a moment. "Yesterday I thought I was done for. Today you belong to me."

"I can't drive when you look at me like that," she murmured. She stopped the car and there was a murmuring interlude.

"Listen, Katharine," said Michael after a space. "You needn't go back to Innbrook at all. I have some cash in my pockets."

"Idiot!" she told him. "I haven't any clothes."

"Well, I'll buy you some."

"With what?" she demanded, laughing.

He frowned. "You're married a poor man, my darling."

"As if that mattered."

She raised his hand to her lips and, with a spontaneity amazing in one always so cool and reserved, kissed it. His face burned a deep time. But he went wearily to the door and opened it.

Mary MacKenzie stood before him.

"Why come in, Mary? Is there? Your Daddy's arm getting on all right?"

Mary was obviously distressed. She sat nervously in a chair below the shelves of books that rose to the ceiling, twisting a handkerchief in her hands. Her eyes cast downward toward her nervously-moving hands, but she came finally to the point.

red. He said huskily, "Do you realize, girl, that the first time you ever—"

"Ever what?" Her dark, burning blue eyes challenged him. Bertine, who complained of her stiffness and coldness, would not have recognized Katharine at the moment.

"The first time you ever gave me any tangible proof of your affection," said the man softly.

She laughed gayly. "I like that. Here I dash off in my oldest frock and marry the man and he says I give no tangible proof . . ."

She broke off to regard him oddly.

"She's always been the one before

"Michael Heather, I've said it before and I say it now again—do you know you don't talk in the least like a wild westerner?"

He laughed. Oh, I've been to school, you know.

"I know, really, so little about you," she said, luxuriating in the adoring glance he gave her. "There's so much I want to hear . . ."

Some demon of jealousy prompted her next remark. "I know less than Sally Moon, probably."

He shrugged his shoulders. "Will you believe me, Katharine, or think me less than gallant if I say that affair wasn't of my making?"

She lifted candid eyes to his, her fingers interlaced in his strong ones. "Oh, I knew that," she said softly. "It isn't the first time Sally's been engaged. Only . . ."

"Only what?"

"She's always been the one before to break the darn things," Katharine confessed, ingenuously. "Michael, this is a terrible thing we've done to her . . ."

"Lord, it is rotten," the man confessed ruefully.

There was Bertine to be told and Katharine's father and Sally Moon . . . oh, how could they face it?

"Michael, I tell you what," Katharine began eagerly. "You let me drive you to the through train and go off some place until this thing—whatever it is—blows over. Then I'll join you, and everything will be all right."

He shook his handsome head. "I don't dare let you out of my sight. You'd vanish like the princess in the fairy tale."

She must make him see reason. "But don't you understand? It will be just for a little while. I can come to you in a few days—maybe a week."

He was obdurate. She had not known he could be so stubborn. She was in despair.

"But why else did I come with you—marry you—except to save you?"

"I thought," he told her quietly, "it was partly because you loved me."

(To Be Continued)

Beyond all the hubbub, there were five little living things in a basket at the Asa Wyatts'. Until the incubators came, hot water bottles had to be constantly replenished. The babies, of course, remained serenely unconscious of the fact that they were the centre of attention of half a world.

house, and he was silent. Parking his car in the front yard, he strode to the door of the house, the new nurse at his heels.

Wearily to exhaustion, Nurse Kennedy had the situation in hand. Mrs. Wyatt was so much better that it was plain that, so far as she was concerned, the crisis was past. The babies, too, had seemed to take their warm-water ration a little more enthusiastically, as much as fourteen drops from the indispensable eye-dropper.

Nurse Kennedy made a bed for herself on an old sofa, and lay down to rest. She was so utterly weary that at first she could not sleep. Her tired eyes followed the new nurse about the room as she took up the fight.

Asa, too, having at last recovered himself enough to fetch a large supply of wood, went to bed in the loft, and Constable Jim Ogden went back to town. The doctor and nurse were left alone to carry on the fight.

"If we only had an incubator!" repeated Dr. Luke again and again as the constant strain of keeping a stream of warm blankets moving from stove to basket and back again began to tell. The flame of life in the tiny babies flickered so uncertainly that it could not warm them without outside help.

Gradually the doctor developed a design for living in the tiny Wyatt home. As Mrs. Wyatt gained strength, she was moved to another room, and the little alcove where the babies had been born was turned into a nursery. Willing help was enlisted from the open-mouthed and still incredulous neighbor women. One was told off as cook, and a general utility handy man hired. Services of another nurse

He wired succinct instructions to MacKenzie at Moosetown.

The company manager scowled as he read the curt telegram. It said: "Get Doctor Wilson out of there at once stop render all possible aid Dr. Luke."

MacKenzie had no choice but to obey, but his call on Dr. Luke at the one of the periods when the doctor was at home trying to keep up with his regular patients, was surely and ungraciously. He felt that Sir Basil had thrown him down badly, a feeling that was not entirely unjustified.

Dr. Luke was not fooled by the tender of aid from MacKenzie. He did not know, but he suspected, that only the popularity of the babies and the focus of public attention on the situation had prompted the offer. But he thanked MacKenzie and promised to call on him for anything he might need. "All foolishness, calling Dr. Wilson back, though," he added. "I haven't as much time left for my regular practice as I ought to have."

With a flood of mail which came in on the doctor and which lay for the most part unopened on his desk because of sheer lack of time to attend to it, came a wave of reporters. From North Bay, from Detroit, Cleveland, Montreal, New York, Chicago, came the reporters and camera men, plugging the doctor for details, pictures, signed stories. At first Dr. Luke was resentful. The quiet ways of Moosetown had included no such hectic whirling as this. But gradually, as money and aid began to pour in as a direct result of the stories the young men were filing at the crowded telegraph office, Dr. Luke became reconciled. This was the

and poundings at his front door, he had to respond also to frantic emergency calls from the Wyatt home, and besides all this keep up the regular practice which again leaped upward with the departure of Dr. Wilson.

The entire Wyatt home had to be reorganized as a nursery, screens placed on windows to guard against the vicious black flies and mosquitoes. Long lines of diapers appeared in the back yard, and a laundry system began.

The older Wyatt children remained at a neighbor's when several of them developed bronchitis. There was no room for them in the tiny Wyatt home anyway, with three nurses and a cook and "hospital orderlies" on hand.

Mrs. Wyatts was soon up and around, and doing her share of the work, oscillating between her own home and that of the neighbor who was keeping her other children. Asa spent a great deal of time at the village store. His initial shyness began to disappear, and he soon began to blossom into a person of importance. Constant posing before the insatiable newspaper cameras had its share in this.

In the evening Dr. Luke tried to hide away in his study, to avoid the general hubbub. Even that haven was denied him, for the doorbell rang constantly. Promoters seeking his approval of this or that proposition for exploiting the miraculous children, producers of baby foods and supplies seeking endorsement, newspapermen and women imploring him to "give them a few starts on the case." So bad did this get that Dr. Luke was more than half inclined not to answer the bell one night when it interrupted him for the twentieth time. But he went wearily to the door and opened it.

Mary MacKenzie stood before him.

"Why come in, Mary? Is there? Your Daddy's arm getting on all right?"

Mary was obviously distressed. She sat nervously in a chair below the shelves of books that rose to the ceiling, twisting a handkerchief in her hands. Her eyes cast downward toward her nervously-moving hands, but she came finally to the point.

"Dr. Luke," she said, "have you heard anything from Tony? Is he all right?"

"Why, yes," responded the doctor. "I had a short note from him last week. He's back in medical school, and I had a note from my brother that mentioned that he was doing well."

"I'm so glad," Mary's relief was obvious. "You see—" she added hesitantly. "I haven't had a letter from him in a long time. I had one or two—and I'm not sure, but I think father's holding them up. I saw him go out to the mail box the other day, and tear up a letter. It was just when I was expecting to hear from Tony, and—"

"H'm!" The doctor said nothing, but indignation welled within him. "I think maybe we can fix up a little plan—"

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

FOR GOOD MERINGUE USE ELBOW GREASE
By MARY E. DAQUE

You cannot make a meringue with lusciousness, even though the perfect result does seem sheer magic. You may want to use the electric mixer but elbow grease is better.

In order that the action of air may be complete, the egg whites should be beaten with a whisk. A drier beater or a churn beater cannot whip the amount of air necessary to make a perfect meringue from the egg whites.

Eggs from three to five days old are most satisfactory. They increase in volume more at this stage of freshness than at any other time. Also eggs that are not too cold become stiffer than the chilled ones we used to be advised to use. Keep this in mind when you make an angel food cake, too. Some cooks, in their zeal to get fresh eggs, defeat their own ends because a day-old egg does not beat up as stiff as a three-day egg.

TWO KINDS OF MERINGUE
Great care must be taken to separate the white from the yolk. Even a tiny bit of the yolk prevents the white from beating well. If much of the yolk is broken through the white the egg can be used for some other baking, but not for meringue. However, a small amount of yolk can be removed by dampening a soft clean cloth and dipping it into the streak of yolk until every trace is removed.

I have had so many requests lately for recipes for meringues that I am going to give you two, one for the kind you put on pies and puddings and the other for meringue shells. A simple meringue is used for pie and pudding frostings. For meringue shells you use the same ingredients in different proportions.

If you store the shells in an air-

TRAINS GIRL ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS IN FRANCE

By ROSSETTE HARGROVE

Paris—Ten years ago, with no capital but plenty of enthusiasm and ardor, Mile. Marie-Louise Paris founded her Institute of Women Electrical Engineers, the first and only one of its kind in the world. The institute was open to girls of all nationalities.

Under her inspired guidance 150 girls have been graduated from the institute with the diploma of engineer. Each has obtained a post which hitherto had either never been considered compatible with feminine capabilities or had been occupied by men.

SCIENCE HITHERTO CLOSED TO WOMEN

According to this very progressive and dynamic French woman, there is no reason why scientific ability should remain the exclusive possession of men.

Until she founded her school, few if any French women were afforded the advantage of a scientific education, although many were attracted by it. Literature, the arts and later on medicine and law were the only fields open to the sex. Science, electricity and mechanics seemed absolutely inaccessible. Of course, there were a few women like Clemence Royer and Madame Curie, but it was out of the question to dream of specializing or even approaching their achievements.

Marie-Louise Paris belongs to the bourgeoisie. Her father was an officer in the army and believed in a sound education for his two daughters. They both studied at the University of Grenoble and took science as a side course, because they happened to be interested.

WAS RAILWAY SIGNALLER

After the war the girls were faced with the problem of earning their living as well as so many other girls of their social standing. Electrical engineering had a particular appeal for Marie-Louise, so she continued her studies and was one of the first women in France to obtain her engineering diploma. Her first job was in a laboratory where she was put in charge of measuring electrical units. Later she studied signaling and secured a post

THE TRUTH ABOUT DIET

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

So persistent is the craze for slender figures, that women throughout the country indulge in all sorts of dangerous methods to reduce weight. Every few months brings some new fad or technique with which a great many women immediately experiment, until science shows the harm that these methods cause, and their fallacy.

During 1935, women everywhere were trying a diet of nitrophenol, until eventually cases began to appear in which the use of this chemical caused damage to the eye. There are now a great many women who have paid for their vanity by losing their sight.

Previously women had used preparations containing thyroid which were dangerous to life and health. Many had developed symptoms of hyperthyroidism, which involves a rapid heart, irritability of the nervous system, and other systemic upsets of a serious character.

Still others had used patent medicines containing drugs without efficiency and had spent their money without any result except damage to health.

Today women in various parts of the country are flocking to milk farms to try the newest fad. On these farms they subsist for varying periods on milk, orange juice, and soup; the milk sometimes being taken in the form of acidophilus milk, lactic acid milk, or the klabber known among the Bulgarians as yogurt.

Such diet is exceedingly dangerous because it brings about weight reduction far too rapidly, and because it does not provide a sufficient amount of mineral salts, especially iron, to sustain the blood in a normal healthful condition.

You may see today women who are haggard and sallow wandering about in a weakened condition. But still rather proud of the fact that they have taken off, in a short period of time, anywhere from ten to fifteen pounds. You may see the same women a month later with ten to fifteen pounds restored on those parts of the body on which they would rather have the weight absent, and nothing to show for their experiment but disappointment and some loss of health.

TODAY'S HEALTH QUESTION

Q—I am fifty-four years of age. About six months ago the skin on the back of my hands became loose and would not snap back. My muscles also have become flabby, and some of my teeth have become sensitive to pressure. If this is old age, why should it come on so?

A—There is some loss of muscle tone and also a reduction in the fatty layer of tissue under the skin as persons grow older. This may account for the apparent looseness of the skin on the hands and the apparent flabbiness of the muscles. Age, however, does not account for sensitiveness in the teeth. You should have your teeth examined by a dentist. You should also have a thorough physical examination to ascertain the state of your health and should repeat this procedure each year.

JEAN PATOU PASSES AWAY

Noted French Fashion Designer Dies; Was Bankrupt

Canadian Press
Paris, March 9.—A war veteran who was perhaps the world's most noted fashion designer before the depression ruined his business, died yesterday. He was forty-seven.

He suffered a temporary setback in 1930 when he declared the then popular knee-length skirts outlawed. His creations were boycotted. He started lowering the hemlines of his creations gradually and soon won his point.

At one time he grossed an annual business of $3,500,000. When he visited the United States in 1924 his wardrobe boasted sixty suits, 150 shirts and 300 neckties.

He was born the son of a poor leather worker. He tried his father's trade for a time but found it a difficult medium for his artistic expressions, so he turned to dressmaking, then designing.

The depression brought about his bankruptcy.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELKED

EVAPORATED MILK IS LESS APT TO CAUSE ECZEMA THAN IS FRESH

There are a few children to whom milk is offending and who exhibit their sensitivity by the development of a rash. Evaporated milk, due to its long processing, is most often least offensive to children with eczematous rashes from milk. When a child with such a rash is already taking evaporated milk, it would seem sensible not to make further changes which might be followed by an even severer rash.

Mrs. E.L. writes: "My baby weighed eight pounds at birth, now at three and one-half months weighs thirteen pounds. I make his formula this way. I put six tablespoonsful of corn syrup into a pint of boiled water and at feeding time give the baby two ounces of half evaporated milk and half of this mixture."

BABY HAS RASH

"He had a bad rash when small but is much better now. He has been constipated but is better since I strengthened the formula. How would I make up a fresh milk formula, and should I change or keep on with the evaporated milk?"

It is almost impossible to imagine how your baby could have gained from eight to thirteen and one-half pounds on such a meagre formula. You did not mention how many times a day you feed the baby—but even if you feed seven times—which, I hope, you don't—the total of milk would be far too small.

STRENGTHEN FORMULA

The regulation formula for a baby weighing thirteen pounds would be twelve to thirteen ounces of evaporated milk, one to one and one-half ounces of syrup and enough boiled water to make five seven-ounce feedings, or four eight-ounce ones. You may have the formula. "What Mothers Should Know about Ecema," "Sweet Milk Formula," and "Evaporated Milk Formula," for a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope sent with your request to Myrtle Meyer Elked of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

Meantime, I'd strengthen your present formula gradually and make no other changes. Your baby should have orange juice, too.

KING ATTENDS WINDSOR CHAPEL

London, March 9. (Canadian Press).—King Edward made a surprise attendance at Evensong in St. George's Chapel in Windsor yesterday evening and only a few other worshippers were aware of his presence. It was the first time he had been in the chapel since his father's funeral, and he occupied for the first time the monarch's stall of the Order of the Garter, above which a new banner as sovereign of the order had just been placed.

BIG HIPS AND THIGHS SPOIL PRETTY FIGURES

By ALICIA HART

You don't have to spend your time worrying because your hips are so much larger than those of fashion show models, but, once your hip measurements start to show signs of being all out of proportions to the rest of your body, better do something at once.

The tall girl with a 33 bust has reason to be upset when she discovers that her hips measure 40. They ought to be about 37. The size 42 has cause to worry the day she learns that her hips are more than 46. If she allows them to get larger and larger, so they eventually reach 50, she is guilty of neglect and ruination of her figure.

You determine your correct hip-line measurements only after careful check-up on the size of your waist and bust. It is not so much what you weigh, but how the weight is distributed that decides whether your figure is handsome or ugly.

A woman's hips have a tendency to spread as she gets older, of course. Sometimes this is because she refuses to wear any kind of girdle or corset in spite of the fact that she sits in a desk chair seven hours a day, year after year. Or it may be because she overeats and never exercises. Whatever the cause, over-development of the hips can be avoided. Exercises are the answer.

I know a young school teacher who reduced her hips three full inches in exactly six months simply by rolling on the floor fifty times night and morning. If you decide to try this one, don't get any ideas that you are supposed to roll over and over across the room until your body is bruised and your head throbbing with pain. You are to lie on the floor on your back, keeping your shoulders flat and arms at your sides. Simply roll your body back and forth as far as it will go without forcing your shoulders to move. The waistline does the work.

The hips and thighs, pressed hard against the floor as they are, derive the benefit.

A variation of this is the exercise in which the left leg is held straight while the other is raised from the hips, crossed over the left and forced upward as far as it will go. Reverse this, raising and crossing left leg over right. Both legs should be held perfectly straight. When one is raised, crossed and forced upward until it forms a right angle with the body, the fatty tissues in the hip adjoining it are bound to get a real workout.

Boston Moves Ahead of Rangers In Hockey Play-off Battle

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

VICTORIA'S rep rugby team continued its brilliant season's performance at Vancouver on Saturday afternoon by smashing through Varsity for a 6 to 0 victory and the championship of the intercity series for possession of the coveted McKee Cup. It marked the third straight year the handsome silverware has come to the capital city and speaks well for the brand of rugby played in this city. Victoria won despite a lot of hallyho on the mainland that Varsity had produced this year's champions. True, the Victoria team was extended to the limit and won only by a single try, but the big feature was that the locals came through under pressure.

Much of the credit for the Victoria victory goes to Ernie Butterworth, energetic coach of the Crimson Tide. The veteran mentor had decided to take a back seat this season and let somebody else handle Victoria's cup squad, but after much persuasion he agreed to carry on for another year. As usual, he has done a good job. Charlie Morton and Bob McInnes have also done their part in no small share in the glory. Of course, the players are the ones to be congratulated, and this year's team was an easy one to handle, as all the boys were keen and turned out for training 100 per cent. The last big match of the season will be against the touring University of Stanford fifteen this month, and local supporters are looking for a victory. I don't think they will be disappointed.

British Columbia's bid for Canadian badminton singles championships received a rude jolt in Winnipeg on Saturday afternoon, but the Coast players did well despite the defeat of Dick Birch and Margaret Taylor at the hands of Douglas Grant and Mrs. W. R. Walton. Birch's setback must have been a heartbreaker for the Vancouver star, for he has been knocking at the door of the national title for so long now it was thought this was to be his year. Miss Taylor's defeat came as a distinct surprise, as she was considered just about a cinch for her second straight Canadian title, but the Kelowna southpaw went down fighting gamely.

Birch made up for his defeat in the singles by teaming with Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick to lift the mixed doubles championship, while the second national crown was brought to British Columbia by the crack men's doubles combination of Eric Leney, Duncan, and the veteran Jack Underhill, Vancouver. Two championships was a mighty good showing for British Columbia's contingent, and shows that the calibre of badminton played in this province ranks with the finest in the Dominion.

On local pitches on Saturday afternoon two championships were decided and congratulations are in order to the Esquimalt first division soccer team for lifting the McGavin Cup and the Wanderers Whites in capturing the intermediate rugby title. Both these clubs came through to their victories in the face of the stiffest kind of opposition, Esquimalt being forced into overtime to defeat the Victoria West in their soccer final, and the Wanderers defeating the Fifth Brigade by a single point.

Saturday evening's wrestling card at the Tillikum gym saw the big boys in exceptionally fine form. They even went so far that Chief of Police Heatley and his strong-arm lieutenant, Detective Inspector Jack McLean had to step in and pull "Wee Willie" Davis and Jack Forsgren away from each other's throats. The bluecoats proved they could dish it out, and after man-handling the pair they decided to be good and get back into the ring. This type of play on the part of the grunt and groin boys is a great stuff for the cash customers, but it is still all part of the show.

LOU MARSH BURIED

Toronto, March 9.—Lou Marsh was buried Saturday. With a thousand floral tributes surrounding the coffin, and hundreds jamming High Park Baptist Church to capacity, Toronto said good-bye to the sports writer who earned the respect of fellow craftsmen and the plaudits of sports fans throughout the Dominion.

Defeats Detroit As Rangers Drop Tilt With Amerks

Marks Up 5 to 2 Win Over Leaders; Jerwa's Goal Beats Patrick's Club

CANADIENS ARE BEATEN TWICE

Toronto 5, Canadiens 1.
Maroons 5, Detroit 2.
Boston 5, Detroit 2.
Americans 1, Rangers 0.
Chicago 2, Canadiens 0.

Joe Jerwa, who came out of the coal-mine country of Alberta and failed utterly a few years ago to make himself a National Hockey League celebrity, rubbed elbows with the upper crust of the sport today. Nobody was surprised to see him doing it, either.

The raw-boned, rangy Jerwa, a comparatively polished defenseman six years after he made his New York debut with Lester Patrick's Rangers, fired a goal yesterday evening in Madison Square Garden that in all probability will send Americans into the playoffs for the second time in ten years.

Only a goal of a furious battle between the two New York teams, it may also prevent Rangers from reaching the playoffs. Fifteen thousand acclaimed Jerwa as he skated through the Ranger defence late in the first period and drove a blazing shot into the net. Joe's own manager, Red Dutton, watched the spectacle from the penalty box.

With a chance to keep pace with Americans for the third place berth in the group, Montreal Canadiens fumbled twice. They were trounced 5 to 1 by Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday night and 2 to 0 by Chicago Black Hawks yesterday evening. They stand three points behind Americans with five games remaining on the schedule.

But Canadiens went down bravely. They hadn't a chance against the Leafs, who unleashed the heavy artillery to make certain of temporarily retaining first place in the Canadian section. Wild Cude played brilliantly in goal to hold Toronto to eight goals.

Bill Thomas scored three and Charlie Conacher two as the Leafs mauled the tallenders unmercifully toward the end.

Art Jackson was another star, getting a goal and two assists, but the defence wobbled most of the way. Against the Hawks in Chicago, Canadiens made a grand stand before bowing. The dazzling Cude provided another interminable performance, but shots by Paul Thompson and Doc Romnes beat him and the Frenchmen couldn't score on Mike Karakas, who recorded his ninth shutout of the campaign.

Montreal Maroons kept pace with Toronto by whipping Detroit Red Wings 5 to 3 at Montreal Saturday night. The Bruins pounded in three goals in the first period and coasted to a 5 to 2 victory. The win put them a full game ahead of Rangers in the race for third place in the American group.

Cooney Weiland, Dit Clapper and Red Beattie each scored for Boston in the first period and Alex Motter and Charlie Sands tallied in the third. Detroit's futile goals were scored by Johnny Borrell and Syd Howe.

TWO BOUTS ARE DRAWS

Jack Forsgren and "Wee Willie" Davis in Wild Show on Mat Card

Two draws, a battle in the aisles and one decision furnished the excitement for customers at the weekly wrestling show at the Tillikum gym on Saturday night.

Jack Forsgren, 240-pound Vancouver grappler, and "Wee Willie" Davis, ex-called bad man from Norfolk, Va. of equal poundage to the Terminal City boy, finished their bout in a one-fall draw. Davis scored a fall in the third and Forsgren evened the match in the fourth.

In the fourth, "Wee Willie" kept weighing him up and Forsgren finally pushed him out of the ring. Davis pulled his opponent with him and they wrestled in the aisles until Chief of Police Thomas Heatley and Detective Inspector John McLean parted them. They returned to the mat after Referee Pat Griffin had withdrawn and kept the party going until Davis called time. Boos for Davis and cheers for Forsgren accompanied the wrestlers to the dressing-room.

Nelson Davis, 237-pound brother of "Wee Willie" tried his brother's tactics on Mayne McLean, 232-pound Iowa grappler, but McLean flattened him in the third with a series of elbow butts and a body slam. In the fourth McLean broke from a scissors hold to spread-eagle Davis for the second fall.

George Lowe and Al Gairnot wrestled to a one-fall draw in the local preliminary.

MICKEY ION CHASES FAN

Veteran Referee in International Hockey League Gets Mad at Spectator

Windsor, Ont., March 9.—Just fifteen days away from the end of the schedule, the International Hockey League moved calmly to the playoffs today. There was little likelihood any of the six teams now in playoff slots would be ousted in the next two weeks.

Four week-end games failed to produce anything startling in the way of upsets though spectators at Cleveland yesterday evening got a laugh when Referee Mickey Ion jumped over the board and chased a spectator from his seat.

Cleveland beat London 7 to 4. Buffalo Bisons gained a point in their chase of Syracuse Stars, leaders of the eastern section, by winning from Windsor Bulldogs 2 to 1, while Bulldogs held Stars to a 2 to 2 tie yesterday evening. Pittsburgh helped themselves a little with a 3 to 2 victory over Rochester Cardinals but remained in last place of the western section.

Young Paul Gauthier featured a lustreless battle between Pittsburgh and Rochester by making fifty saves.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Strange as it seems, Premier Benito Mussolini, whose war machine is now bogged down in Ethiopia in what other world powers have condemned as a war of aggression—this same Mussolini was once so utterly against a similar military expedition that he organized a riot of protest and was thrown in jail for his trouble.

Twenty-two years ago, when it was only twenty-eight years old, the Giolitti Government in Italy sent a military expedition to Tripoli after an ultimatum sent by Rome to Constantinople was unsatisfactorily answered by the Turkish Government. The Italo-Turkish war had the popular support of the Italian people with the exception of the Socialists who denounced it bitterly.

Mussolini had been proposed by a California senator for the new state later admitted as Arizona. The Colorado representative actually favored the name "Idaho" but further discussion of the proposed name brought up the suggestion that the state be named Colorado because of the Colorado River. Senator Gwin, California, objected because he wanted to name Arizona territory.

Recreation Work

The Crystal Pool will be the rendezvous for members and visitors this evening at 8:30 o'clock when the swimming gala is staged. It is expected that over 100 members will take part and over twice that number will witness the programme.

Notice is given that tonight's gala will be the only session at the pool during the week. The next class for men and women will be on March 15.

The Wednesday League soccer team gets a bye this week. The following week's fixture is with Hudson's Bay at Heywood Avenue.

Almost sufficient money has been raised for the gym teams to travel to Vancouver. The next class for men and women will be on March 15.

St. Michaels Wins Rugby Exhibition

A strong forward game that brought them from behind to victory gave St. Michael's School first rugby team an 8 to 6 verdict over Brentwood second fifteen at Brentwood recently. The Tod Inlet boys put up a six-point lead, Mears scoring the second try, early in the fixture and J. Kidd completed a forward rush to give St. Michael's their opening counter. The forwards combined again in the second half to force the ball over the Brentwood line and Gillespie kicked the convert to make the score 8 to 6.

B.C. Stars Capture Two Championships

Dick Birch and Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick and Jack Underhill and Eric Leney Win Doubles Titles as Canadian Badminton Tourney Closes

Winnipeg, March 9.—One hundred and twenty pounds of badminton energy wrapped up in the diminutive form of Mrs. W. R. Walton moved into full glare of Canada's shuttle spotlight today. The little Toronto star captured the women's singles and started the drive that overturned four champions in final rounds of the Canadian championships tournament here Saturday.

Three of the five titles were transferred to the west in Saturday's redistribution. Douglas Grant, Winnipeg, captured the men's singles event, Mrs. Anna Kier Patrick and Dick Birch, Vancouver, the mixed doubles and Jack Underhill, Vancouver, and Eric Leney, Duncan, B.C., the men's doubles.

The Robertson sisters, Ruth and Margaret, Ottawa, emerged from the four-day competition the only defending champions to retain possession of the crown they won at Ottawa last year.

CHAMPIONS PASS

The sudden dynamic surge that swept crowned heads into the discard was apparent in the defeat of Margaret Taylor in the women's singles event. The petite Kelowna champion, favored to retain her 1934 title, faltered in the face of low-flying shots and bowed out to Mrs. Walton by scores of 14-9, 14-3.

and Leney scored a 15-10, 15-10 win over Grant and Jimmy Forsythe, Winnipeg, in the doubles event.

Grant, dark-haired Manitoba ace who was champion in 1933-34, subdued Birch in the final by scores of 15-10, 15-9.

Margaret and Ruth Robertson, top-seeded invading stars, were given a rousing duel by Isabel Bryson and Ethel Snell before retaining possession of their women's doubles crown. The all-Ontario match developed into an exciting contest for points which fortune shifted swiftly before the sisters won, 15-10, 15-11.

Esquimalt Team In Cup Victory

Defeat Victoria West 3 to 2 in Overtime to Capture McGavin Cup For First Division Soccer Play; Teams Tied 1 to 1 at End of Regular Time

Playing on the grounds at the Athletic Park, made slimy and treacherous by rain, Esquimalt soccer eleven came through to capture the McGavin Cup, when they administered a 3 to 2 defeat to the Victoria West eleven, in an overtime fixture Saturday afternoon.

The teams playing ragged ball in the initial canto had failed to score at the interval. In the second session, however, each team managed to get one apiece, and at the final whistle were deadlocked 1 to 1.

In the half-hour over-time that followed, the Dockers pushed across two goals and held the Wests to a lone tally, to take the game by a lone marker. A fine combination play between Barnswell and Scotty Stewart during the final half of the overtime, resulted in Stewart scoring the winning goal.

The fact that Tommy Restell, West's netminder, let three goals past, did not signify he did not do his job well in the goal, for many times during the encounter he stopped dangerous attempts at his net and displayed wonderful ability.

Esquimalt had the edge in play during the first half and kept the ball during the majority of the time in the West's territory, but wild shooting on their part, and the good netminding of the opposing goalie prevented them from scoring. Victoria West at times rallied, but De Costa successfully handled all that came his way.

GOALIE BUSY

Restell had a busy time tending his goal during the first eight minutes of the second half play, counting exacting dangerous plays. Coming on to the offensive at this time, Victoria West forwards took the leather into their opponent's territory, where Wilkinson centred to John Watt, who scored beautifully with a low push-kick into the corner of the net. This was the opening score of the game.

At the start of the second half, the Dockers again surged down the field. Eddie De Costa, Esquimalt centre forward tried soon after with a ground shot, but Restell threw clear. Watt was quickly reversed and some exciting moments were witnessed in front of the Dockers' goal when Victoria West forwards tried repeatedly to get the net.

The next fifteen minutes saw the ball at either end of the field, with neither team registering. The tying goal came as thirty-five minutes of the half past. Eddie De Costa headed the ball into the net. Restell thought he had the ball secure, but the slimy leather worked itself out of his hands and fell into the net.

De Costa tried to head it in again seconds later, but this time Restell grabbed the ball carefully and threw it clear.

UPPER HAND

The Dockers held the upper hand in play during the overtime, and displayed their superiority, for before many minutes of this session were gone they took the lead. De Costa again took the honors, when he drove a sizzling past Restell from well outside the penalty area. For the rest of this session no more scoring was evidenced.

A bare four minutes of last half of the overtime had lapsed, when Barnswell and Scotty Stewart, Esquimalt forwards, took the ball down the field between them on a solo flight, and Stewart banged in a fine marker, to complete a pretty combination play, and at the same time account for the winning goal of the game.

Ernie Wilkinson got the Wests' second goal just about two minutes before the end, when he took a fine pass from Brown and beat goalie De Costa with a hard shot. Noel Moray, nearly brought the teams into another deadlock minutes later, but his shot rattled over the posts, and soon after the final whistle blew.

The slippery ball and wet ground made it rather difficult for the players, and as a result many mis-kicks were seen.

Downs refereed. The teams follow: Esquimalt—De Costa, Watt, Cook, Edwards, Hay, Boyd, Barnswell, Stewart, E. De Costa, Worwick and Bishard.

Victoria—West—Restell, Beside, Ockell, Lorrain, Robinson, Thompson, Bell, Wilkinson, Watt, Morgan and Brown.

RUGBY PRACTICE
A practice of the Bays-Wanderers rugby team will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Oak Bay Park.

TWO LOSSES FOR CALGARY

Tigers Beaten By Seattle and Portland in Northwest Hockey League.

The lowly, cellar-dwelling Calgary Tigers had passed out of the Northwest Hockey League picture today after serving as nothing more than a stepping stone for the league-leading Seattle Sea Hawks and the second-place Buckaroos of Portland in week-end hockey wars.

The Tigers, who were definitely ousted from the playoff picture by the Lions at Vancouver on Friday night, visited Seattle Saturday night to take a 6 to 3 shelling from the Sea Hawks. Yesterday evening saw the Tigers in their last league engagement in Portland against the Buckaroos who handed them an 8 to 0 whitewashing.

The results leave the standings unchanged with Seattle still leading the league with forty-four points, two points above Portland who in turn are three points up on the Vancouver Lions. Each have one game left to play. Edmonton with three games left to play, are in fourth position with thirty-five points.

The Portland affair proved nothing more than a massacre, with the entire Buck personnel using it to advantage to swell their scoring averages.

FOUR FOR PRATT

The Bucks took a two-goal lead in the first period on goals by Jack Pratt and Rusty Hemmerling, and Pratt added two more in the middle period.

Before the final period was twenty seconds old Pratt again sagged the twine in the Calgary nets and was followed closely by Ralph Blyth who took a pass from Louie Coupez and by Hemmerling on a pass from Blyth. Coupez went through alone for the final tally less than two minutes from the end.

NANAIMO WINS SOCCER MATCH

Defeats St. Saviours 1 to 0 in Intercity Game; Denton Scores Lone Goal

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 9.—After many postponements owing to inclement weather Nanaimo City and St. Saviours finally met here Saturday in their scheduled Intercity Soccer League match, the Islanders taking the decision, 1 to 0.

The game was played in a down-pour of rain on a soggy pitch that slowed up the game considerably and spoiled many good scoring chances.

Nanaimo scored their lone goal in the first fifteen minutes with a light wing combination. Denton dribbled the ball in front of the posts and slipped it to Edmunds. The latter was blocked and slipped the muddy pigskin back to Denton, who scored.

In the first half Nanaimo showed their superiority and outplayed the Vancouver team. George West and Andy Gavin, fullbacks, playing brilliantly.

St. Saviours had a fair share of the game in the latter half, but could not score. Murray West, centre half, played good games for the Vancouver squad, blocking many of the island rushes.

JOHN ALLEN WINS

Fairbanks, Alaska, March 9.—John Allen, of the Fairbanks team, won the first of his three races in the first game of the season. After Feden's second penalty kick McPhie took the ball on a fifteen-yard dash.

Rowe and Fleming carried the ball to Varsity's five-yard line just after the second period opened. The try was scored as a result of a penalty kick and lethal defence by Varsity. The kick was wide and fell short of the line, but with a knot of Varsity players standing idly by, Banks dashed in and made an opening. The ball was retrieved by Eastham who fell across the line. Feden then added the extra points to give his team a 5 to 0 lead.

Varsity continued to press and tried desperately to cut the visitors' lead but smart tackling by the Reps kept them back.

Led by Bill Wharton and Wally Stipe, Varsity's scrum half, the visitors got the ball out of formed scrums five times to the advantage. Except for the final ten minutes they controlled play through the balance of the game. A penalty kick, awarded Varsity in the closing minutes and taken by Carey, just missed from fifteen yards out.

Fleming and Rowe were outstanding on Varsity's three-quarter line with Colgate playing a nice game at fullback and Downell, Wharton and Banks, the best of the forwards.

Strat Leggett and Al Mercer did well in Varsity's back division and Pearson and Pyle were the best of their forwards but the team could

M'KECHNIE CUP REMAINS HERE

Vancouver, March 9.—The historic M'Kechnie Cup, emblematic of British Columbia rugby supremacy, will remain in Victoria for at least another year, the island city's rep team holding the coveted mug by virtue of a 5 to 0 win over Varsity in the final game here on Saturday.

The match had been postponed five consecutive weeks and when the two teams finally met they played in a downpour of rain.

Harry Eastham scored the only try of the game about five minutes after second-half play began and Doug Feden converted for the extra points.

The Rep team threatened the students in the first three minutes of the game when they were allowed two penalty shots. Feden took both, and came near scoring both times, one of the kicks striking the post.

Howie McPhie, sprint star and all-round athlete of the Varsity fifteen, did good work in his first game of the season. After Feden's second penalty kick McPhie took the ball on a fifteen-yard dash.

Rowe and Fleming carried the ball to Varsity's five-yard line just after the second period opened. The try was scored as a result of a penalty kick and lethal defence by Varsity. Wanderers Whites Win Intermediate Honors By Point

Come From Behind to Beat Fifth Brigade 6 to 5 in Deciding Game Here

Complete Season Without Defeat

Wanderers Whites looked back on an almost perfect season today—a season which saw them meet and defeat every team in the intermediate rugby league. They wound up their local campaign at Macdonald Park on Saturday with a rugged, 6 to 5 victory over the Fifth Brigade wing three-quarter, and the city championship without having been beaten in a single encounter.

It looked as if the Whites' string of triumphs were due for a halt as the game opened on Saturday. Five minutes from the interval, Freddy Smith, fleet Fifth Brigade wing three-quarter, sped over the Oak Bay team's line on a neat run engineered by Jack Ferguson, and Coles kicked the convert to give the young Gunners a 5 to 0 lead.

Whites, fighting all the way, replied with two driving attacks that put the ball over the line on long kicks, but the Brigade touched down on safety.

Pangman missed a penalty kick for goal but the Whites continued their attack. The Gunners were lucky to avoid serious tries as they started kicking in their own twenty-five.

Buster Stewart was held out on the Gunners' line as the Wanderers kept up pressure. Their efforts were not to be denied. Twenty-two minutes from the Gunners' try, Murray went over on a nice three-quarter movement from Brown's pass. Stewart missed the kick and the score read 5 to 3 at half-time.

DECIDING TRY: Making most of their extra weight in the home the Wanderers' forwards opened a swarming attack on the Gunners' line as the second half started. Two minutes after the interval they forced the ball over, and Fisher, Briggs and Brown dived for it to touch down for the deciding try. The kick failed again.

The Whites kept up their dribbling attacks and smothered Fifth Brigade

Interior Scenes of "Secret Patrol" Half Completed

Despite sickness, work on "Secret Patrol," mounted police picture being made here by Central Films Limited for Columbia Pictures Incorporated, is going ahead well.

The company is still working on interior scenes in the Willows studios, and about half of the inside work has been completed.

Finnis Barton, leading lady, was today getting ready to go back to work, and finding her freedom pleasant after a week's quarantine with rubella in the isolation ward of St. Joseph's Hospital. Members of the production staff have also been stricken with the epidemic.

Harry Decker, supervisor, will visit a lumber mill near Duncan which is being considered for one of the locations for the picture.

After completion of "Secret Patrol," the company will still have outdoor scenes of "Gunsmoke," western story, to film.

RELIEF LIST IN CITY UP

Seasonal Increase Shown For February Over January; Families Below 1935 Mark

February, regularly regarded as the peak of the unemployment year, saw an increase of forty-three family units added to the list securing relief from the city during January. It was shown in figures released at the relief office today.

Against a total of 928 family units securing aid in January, the February figures showed 971. The amount was lower by fifteen than the total for February of 1935, when 986 secured assistance.

A boost was also seen in the single class. Relief was given during February to 443 single people, against 424 in January and 380 in February of 1935. The fact that unemployed single men in Victoria can no longer be sent to the Sooke camp, together with the seasonal trend, was regarded as a large contributing factor in the increase.

In the family units division the jump over the previous month was regarded largely as seasonal. At this time of the year grubstake made during summer employment are inclined to run out and those who have managed to avoid going on relief up to the end of January are frequently forced to do so.

Committee meetings tomorrow, coupled with a public works meeting at 7:15 o'clock on the insurance question, and a council meeting at 8:30 will keep members of the City Council busy.

It was understood today the outside audit issue would engage the attention of the finance committee, scheduled to meet at 2:15 o'clock.

At the public works meeting, board and non-board companies will be allowed to speak on the fire insurance question. From representatives of different concerns will come figures on insurance costs covering city buildings and their contents. The meeting is called with the object of determining the advisability of establishing blanket coverage for the city as opposed to the present system of individual policies.

Action taken by the committees during the day will be referred to the council for action.

Mr. Justice Robertson of the Supreme Court has decided. After hearing H. J. May Forecast Year's Weather

F. Napier Denison Tells Gyros This Will Be Boon to Prairie Farmers

A prediction that long-range weather forecasts would be made and that messages would one day probably be sent through the earth, rather than around the world as at present, was made today by F. Napier Denison, superintendent at the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Hill, when speaking to members of the Gyro Club at their luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

"I don't think it will be very long before long-range weather forecasting will be carried on," Mr. Denison said. "This will be a great boon to prairie farmers. It will then be possible for a man to come forward and safely predict what the weather for the coming year will be. This will save farmers millions of dollars and it is coming about. I might say Canada will not be far behind other countries in this regard."

MUCH SUNSHINE
The absence of mountains close to Victoria was explained by Mr. Denison as the reason Victoria had so much sunshine, an average throughout the year of six hours a day and ten hours in the summer. There was more sunshine here than in the Channel Islands and the precipitation here was the same as at Brighton, one of England's great seaside resorts on the south coast.

Speaking of the 500 inches of rain a year at Henderson Lake, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, Mr. Denison said: "It is good for the fish, but hard for the men." There is a fish hatchery at Henderson Lake. The sea water off Victoria, which in winter is comparatively warm, is comparatively cold in summer, and this keeps Victoria cool during that season. Mr. Denison said, adding that when people learned of the climate of this coast they would undoubtedly, if at all possible, come here to reside.

Mr. Denison spoke of earthquakes and said that there were instruments at Gonzales so delicate that they recorded every movement in the world. The instruments were among the most delicate in the world, but were also serviceable and did not easily get out of order.

EARTHQUAKES
"When an earthquake takes place it sets up waves that go around the world and through the earth," Mr. Denison said. "They move in regular form and pass under the Pacific. Earthquakes all take place between the surface and sixty-five to seventy miles down—in the skin of the earth."

"Waves around the world," Mr. Denison continued, "travel at two miles a second, but when traveling through the earth they vary according to their depth. If they come almost directly through the earth, through the core, which is very dense, they travel at nine miles a second. The time may come when messages may come through world instead of around the world as at present by radio."

The observatory at Gonzales, Mr. Denison said, received weather reports from all parts of the continent twice a day. Most of the weather experienced on this part of the coast came from the Pacific Ocean. The world was coloring into a period of sun spots, he said. When such spots increased in area and numbers there was a tendency for the temperatures of the world to drop a little. Mr. Denison explained in commenting on February's prolonged cold snap.

Angus McIntyre, vice-president of the club, introduced Mr. Denison, who was thanked for his talk by Waldo Skilling, president.

A two-minute vocational talk was given by Charles Coull, bookkeeper at the National Motors.

William C. Hudson, lieutenant-governor of the district, introduced William Herbert as a new member.

Hit Officer During Fight
David Caird was sentenced to ten days imprisonment when he pleaded guilty in the City Police Court this morning to a charge of assaulting a police officer in the execution of his duty.

The officer was Constable F. Roy Woolsey, who appeared in court with his left eye discolored.

The constable said the accused had been involved in a fight at a dance hall on Saturday. The constable said he took hold of Caird to separate him from his opponent and as he did so the accused struck him in the eye with his fist.

In reply to a question from the court the constable said the accused might have been drinking but he certainly was not drunk.

Asked if he had anything to say, the accused said he had struck the officer before he realized what he was doing.

Urging Vote On Oriental Problem
An expression of the Legislature against "Oriental penetration" is asked in a circular that has been forwarded to members, signed by J. E. Armistead of Sayward, B.C., as provincial leader, and Thomas Catherwood of Hazelton, B.C., as secretary, of "The People's Party of British Columbia," associated with the United Farmers of Canada, B.C. section.

The circular asks the House to pass a resolution demanding that all members of the Federal Parliament from British Columbia should resign their seats and return for re-election with the Oriental question at issue.

London-Capetown Air Record Made

Tommy Rose Succeeds Despite Delay Italians Caused Him in Tripoli

London, March 9.—The air record from Capetown to London was smashed by more than five hours when Tommy Rose landed at Croydon at 11:05 this morning. His time was six days, seven hours and five minutes.

Rose left Capetown early Tuesday and proceeded via Bulawayo, Salisbury, Kaunas and Khartoum. He left Cairo at dawn Saturday with a chance of reducing the record by thirty-six hours, but owing to lack of fuel was forced to land at Benghazi, Tripoli, where he was held up by the Italian authorities because he did not have an official permit to fly over Italian territory.

Eventually he proceeded to Cannes and Lyons. He completed the 4500-mile hop from Lyons to Croydon with five hours and twelve minutes to spare. He thus won the distinction of creating a record both ways, having beaten Mrs. Amy Johnson Mollison's outward record by more than thirty hours.

TWO OPERAS TO BE HEARD
"Aida" and "Traviata" Will Be Presented Here at End of Month

It will be a breath of old-times with the lighting of the Royal Victoria Theatre for the visit of the San Carlo Opera Company, for two performances of grand opera on March 30 and 31, when "Traviata" and "Aida" will be presented. The Royal has been the scene of many brilliant opera performances in years gone by, and the forthcoming event promises to be an outstanding event both musically and socially.

When the company played Vancouver last season, effort was made to have Victoria included in their itinerary, but the tour had already been set, and it was impossible to change their routing. In response to many local music-lovers who went over to Vancouver to hear the company last season and the year before, these efforts were renewed this year, when the Vancouver opera season was announced, with the result that Fortune Gallo, impresario of the company, succeeded in rearranging his booking to give Victoria two days.

The two operas chosen for presentation here were selected in order to afford the company the opportunity of presenting as many of its outstanding singers here, as possible. "Traviata," which will be heard on Monday evening, March 30, and Lucile Meunier, a young lyric soprano, who has won fame by her beautiful voice, will portray the leading role, "Aida." Verdi's spectacular masterpiece, will introduce five of the company's leading stars, Bianca Sayroya, glamorous dramatic soprano, Aroldo Lindi, Swedish dramatic tenor, Mostyn Thomas, Welsh baritone, and Lyuba Scudovska, mezzo soprano, and Harold Kravitt, Russian basso.

One of the features of the "Aida" performance will be the dancing of the San Carlo Ballet, with Lydia Arova and Lucien Prideaux, premier dancers. The company brings its own orchestra, under the direction of the famous maestro Carlo Peroni, who has been responsible for the musical direction of the San Carlo Company for the past fifteen years.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE
It is doubtful if there has ever been a picture filmed wherein the temperament of a race has been so cleverly portrayed as in RKO-Radio's "The Informer," with Victor McLaglen, which is now being shown at the Playhouse Theatre.

In his direction of the screen story, taken from Liam O'Flaherty's novel of the same name, John Ford, himself of Irish strain, has contrived to weld the realism of drama with the basic imaginativeness of the Gael. The result has been called not only a remarkable screen play, but a powerful character study, but actually the saga of a people.

THREE KUBELIKS WILL PLAY HERE
Famous Violinist, Here March 16, Is Traveling With His Son and Daughter

The coming recital here of Jan Kubelik at the Empire Theatre on March 16 is exciting interest among music lovers. This great artist has not visited America since 1922. Prior to that he toured America annually since his first sensational appearance when he was acclaimed as the wonder violinist, a position he has never since relinquished.

Kubelik is anticipating his visit to western Canada with keen enthusiasm. His son, Rafael Kubelik, who though only twenty years of age, has won distinction as a conductor, will accompany him at the piano, and with Anita, his daughter, this great artist will be heard in the Bach double concerto.

Ann Harding To Star Here
A glorious and bizarre adventure to make a husband realize he is in love with his wife is induced in by Ann Harding in "The Lady Consents," in which she co-stars with Herbert Marshall. The picture will come to the Dominion Theatre tomorrow.

The story alternates between tense drama and sophisticated comedy and is climaxed with a smashing denouement.

Ann Harding plays a courageous wife who brings her flirtatious husband to time and cures him of his romantic straying. It is a role made-to-order for Miss Harding, as it combines sparkling comedy and emotional drama to form a fast-moving story.

Herbert Marshall plays the philanthropic doctor who falls an easy prey to the blandishments of the charming women with whom he comes in contact. He has the poise and the masculine appeal demanded by the character, and has the ability to hold the regard of the audience despite his erring ways.

Columbia to Show Buck Jones Serial
Buck Jones, outstanding adventure star, will come to the Columbia Theatre on Thursday with a large supporting company in "The Roaring West," the fifteen-episode Universal serial which supplements his regular feature-length productions for the same company. Initial sequences for the serial were filmed on the lower reaches of Mt. Whitney near Lone Pine, and at Lake Mary, fifty miles from Hollywood. The picture was directed by Ray Taylor, and Jones's supporting cast includes Muriel Evans, Roy Galt, Frank McHugh, Sr., Harlan Knight, William Desmond, Walter Miller, Cliff Lyons and many others.

POPULAR COMEDIAN AT THE CAPITOL

AT PLAYHOUSE
MARGOT GRAHAME, who has the leading role opposite Victor McLaglen in "The Informer," which is now at the Playhouse Theatre.

Grace Moore At Columbia
From time immemorial a command performance by a King has been one of the most conspicuous honors to be accorded a performer. Today as in the past the greatest thespians are those who have given special performances for crowned heads. Any previous recognition they might have received from the public is little compared to plaudits from a king. They are immediately lifted to a lofty plane, the outstanding example of their art.

Such an honor was bestowed upon Grace Moore, divine star of Columbia's dramatic musical romance, "Love Me Forever," showing at the Columbia Theatre. The late King George V of England selected her from all of the great singers of the world to sing at his Silver Jubilee last summer.

Capitol
Eddie Cantor kept the Capitol Theatre audience in gales of laughter Saturday as the pathetic little product of a correspondence course in dominant personality development, "Strike Me Pink," his new Samuel Goldwyn screen musical, in which he is supported by Ethel Merman, Sally Eilers, Parkyakarkus, his "Greek" sledge of radio fame, William Frawley and a gorgeous new crop of Goldwyn Girls.

Eddie is a timid little Casper Milquetoast who adores Joyce Lennox (Ethel Merman), a glamorous nightclub singer. Through a prank of fate he becomes manager of Dreamland Amusement Park and gets mixed up with a ruthless gang of crooked slot machine racketeers.

WILL PRESENT DEBATED PLAY
"Waiting For Lefty" Will Be Presented in Victoria on March 21

The play, "Waiting for Lefty," chosen by Allan Wade, English adjudicator for the Dominion Drama Festival, from sixteen contesting offerings at the recent British Columbia eliminations in Victoria, will be played in Victoria at the City Temple on Saturday evening, March 21.

Written by Clifford Odets, the play was presented by the Progressive Arts Club of Vancouver, under the direction of Garfield King and Guy Glover. "Waiting for Lefty" has probably created more controversy in dramatic circles on this continent than any other play in the last twenty years.

Denounced as a propaganda play by adverse critics, it was banned in Boston. The same fate threatened in Vancouver, but was overcome.

The play has been described as a dramatic bombshell. It deals with a New York taxi strike, and by means of theatrical devices which are as old as Shakespeare, takes the audience into the homes of the strikers. While it deals realistically with economic conditions, there are moments of tenderness and humor.

Tickets may be obtained at the Marionette Library, 631 Fort Street, and the Economy Fuel, 1210 Broad Street.
